U. S. NOTE GIVES FULL AID PLEDGE

SLAVS REPUDIATE AXIS TIE, HAIL U.S. PLEDGE OF AID

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 28 (AP)—A defiant Yugoslavia, led by 17-year-old King Peter II, refused today to ratify the three-day-old Axis pact and received the United States' promise of full aid if she is forced to resist German and Italian armies.

United States Minister Arthur Bliss Lane delivered a note to the government which said that under the terms of the military aid bill every possible assistance would be given Yugoslavia "as to all other nations seeking to maintain their independence and integrity to repel aggression."

The note was delivered to Yugoslavia's hardy soldier premier, Gen. Dusan Simovic, who was plumped into leadership in yesterday's coup d'etat just a short time after Yugoslavia informed Germany the Axis pact would be neither denounced nor ratified.

High diplomatic sources said Yugoslavia had informed Germany that fulfillment of the terms of the pact, signed in Vienna Tuesday by the government which was ousted yesterday, would be "impossible because it would be contrary to the will of the Yugoslav people."

The cabinet was said to have decided at an all-night session to return to "full and absolute neutrality" applying alike to Greece and Britain as well as the Axis.

Desider Gecelj, international news service correspondent in Belgrade, reported today that the regime of King Peter intends to respect all pacts signed by previous governments, including the tripartite agreement, but will repudiate any secret commitments. After the signing in Vienna on Tuesday there were persistent reports that Yugoslavian Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic and Foreign Minister Aleksandar Cincar-Markovic had made secret agreements with German officials.—Editor's Note.

TURKS OFFER PACT

The Turkish minister conferred at length with Premier Simovic and diplomatic quarters reported he proposed a mutual assistance pact with Yugoslavia.

German sources here reported nearly all of the 3000 Nazi economic experts, newspapermen and trade delegates who had been active in Yugoslavia in recent weeks had started for the frontier or were packing for quick exit.

The United States note was delivered as 1,200,000 Yugoslav soldiers stood fully mobilized to resist German and Italian armies should they attempt to hold Yugoslavia to the terms of the pact.

Prime Minister Churchill implied full British support for an anti-Axis Yugoslavia yesterday when he declared Britain would make

8000 CAMBRIA STEEL WORKERS QUIT AS BETHLEHEM STRIKE IS SETTLED

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 28 (AP)—CIO Unionists, reported by their leaders to number 8000 of the 15,000 employees, walked out of the seven-mile-long Cambria Works of the Bethlehem Steel Company today in protest against an election by a rival bargaining agency, the employees representation plan.

Five hours after the walkout began, James Gent, sub-regional director of the CIO, told a press conference the works was "80 per cent shut down and 100 per cent closed as the production" of steel. The 15,000 workers are divided among three shifts.

The walkout followed by a few hours the settlement of a strike at the Bethlehem's parent plant in Bethlehem, Pa., and a threat of a renewal of a strike at the company's Lackawanna, N. Y., plant. Thomas Lambert, U. S. conciliator, and Charles Kutz, state mediator, who sat in on the conferences that led to the settlement

BALKAN BATTLE BREWS—Rumblings of war in the Balkans grew louder today as the Yugoslavia called 1,200,000 fighting men to battle stations following the overthrow of the regent government... while Hitler's government angrily asked what was the meaning of the sudden face about. Indications were that Germany may invade Yugoslavia is the shifting of the German Army in Bulgaria to the Slav border.

Slav Delay Angers Hitler; New Nazi Warning Given Belgrade

By PIERRE J. HUSS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, March 28—Yugoslavia's delay in making known her aims and intentions with regard to the tripartite alliance led to a mounting tide of anger in Berlin today.

Hitler's government lodged a sharp protest in Belgrade over anti-German incidents which occurred during the coup d'etat by which King Peter ousted the ministers who had signed with the Axis and installed a military and apparently war-ready regime. "Drastic developments" were threatened unless King Peter speedily assured Berlin his new government would respect, in letter and spirit, the pact signed

Tuesday in Vienna by former Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic and Foreign Minister Aleksandar Cincar-Markovic, both now under arrest.

Up to a late hour this afternoon, the Yugoslavian government had not formally advised Berlin of its decision.

A spokesman for the German propaganda ministry denied reports abroad that Yugoslavia had cancelled adhesion to the tripartite pact.

CITE ANTI-HITLER DRIVE

Significantly, the official German news agency DNB flooded newspapers and foreign press organizations with stories from Belgrade and elsewhere in Yugoslavia telling of anti-German incidents.

These described in detail how motion picture houses showing German films and newspapers were wrecked, how tourist agencies and offices of German firms were de-

Strike Situation at a Glance

With the strike at the parent plant of the Bethlehem Steel Co., in Bethlehem, Pa., settled a new strike broke out at the Johnstown plant of the same company, and a new walkout threatened at Bethlehem's Lackawanna plant. Other strike fronts—Allis-Chalmers, Milwaukee; International Harvester, Richmond, Ind., and Carnegie-Illinois Steel, at Gary, Ind.—were quiet.

Mother Killed Saving Baby From Oil Truck

Mother love rose supreme today and a young Cambridge widow sacrificed her own life beneath the wheels of a heavy oil truck to save that of her 2½-year-old son.

With her screams ringing through Webster ave., Cambridge, but with her baby sprawled in safety beyond the path of the vehicle, Mrs. Wanda Glebus, 29, was crushed to death almost in front of her own doorway.

She had just run from the sidewalk, to push little Bobby Glebus out of danger, when she was felled by the left front fender of the truck. The left front wheel passed over her chest and abdomen.

FATHER KILLED IN N. Y.

Passersby picked up the still form and rushed her to Cambridge City Hospital, where she was pronounced dead on arrival.

Little Bobby, who lost his father two years ago through an accident in New York, picked himself up and ran crying to the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Agnes Kornstowski, a few doors away, in Webster ave.

Police took Robert A. Harnish of Putnam ave., Cambridge, driver of the truck, to police headquarters, where he was questioned by officers and by an inspector from the Motor Vehicle Registry.

A short time before the accident Mrs. Glebus had sent her elder son, 5-year-old William, to the kindergarten of the Roberts school.

DARTED INTO STREET

Then, taking Bobby, she went to the grandmother's home, a short distance along Webster ave., but on the opposite side.

After a few minutes there, she started to a neighborhood store to get some milk. She had with her an empty bottle, and by her side was little Bobby.

Police were told by Thomas Anderson of Lee st., Cambridge, a passerby, that little Bobby suddenly left his mother's side and darted into the street as the oil truck approached, moving slowly.

Screaming, the mother ran after him and succeeded in shoving him from the truck's path. Then her death screams came as she went under the wheel.

Today's fatal accident marks the third in Cambridge within a week, and the sixth of 1941.

ABOARD U. S. S. BENSON AT SEA, March 28 (AP)—President Roosevelt has decided definitely to speak by radio instead of personally to Jackson Day dinner celebrants in Washington, Saturday night.

He began preparing his address and arranged to speak from the washroom of the yacht, Potomac, on which he is cruising in Southern waters, from 9:30 to 10 p. m. (EST).

Purse Lost Deep In Coal Mine Found On R. R. Locomotive

VINCENNES, Ind., March 28 (AP)—Robert Cannon, electrician at work deep in the new Julian coal mine east of here, lost his pocketbook.

Weeks later a fireman on a Baltimore & Ohio R. R. locomotive nearing Flora, Ill., found it in a shovelful of coal.

The pocketbook had ridden out of the mine on a coal conveyor, been washed and sorted and dumped into a hopper and found its way through a coal station into the locomotive tender. Cannon got it back.

MAINE WOMAN DOCTOR SLAIN; FIEND HUNTED

RICHMOND, Me., March 28—Aided by volunteers, police today sought a ragged stranger while detectives probed mystifying angles of last night's brutal slaying of a woman doctor.

Victim was Dr. Laverne Harris Jos, 38, wife of Dr. Merrill Jos, both of whom came here about five years ago from Birmingham, Ala.

The woman doctor, a tuberculosis specialist, died in Gardiner General Hospital less than three hours after she had been found unconscious, her head crushed, at the foot of the cellar stairs at the couple's home in Main st., just off the business area.

This, the husband asserted, was some time after he had turned away a shabbily dressed man who called at the house seeking narcotics.

Dr. Jos said after dismissing the stranger, he himself went out on an errand. It was on his return that he found his wife dying, he said.

John Wood, 18, of Overlook ave., Burlington, today was headed for the Navy recruiting station after winning probation on auto theft charges and convincing the court he would make a better sailor than a prison inmate.

After the youth's plea for a chance to enter military service, Judge Harold P. Williams of Middlesex Criminal Court placed him on probation while commenting: "During the last few months, many defendants seem to want to join the Army or Navy to escape a sentence."

Two Bank Holidays Stop Run to Get Funds in Croatia

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 28 (AP)—A run on the banks in the Yugoslav province of Croatia induced Vice-Gov. Ijokob Ivkovic today to declare bank holidays today and tomorrow.

Only persons needing money to cover daily expenses are to be allowed small sums.

Aged Man's Body Found in Cambridge

The body of an unidentified man about 70 years old was found by Metropolitan police near the junction of Alewife Brook pky. and Murray Hill rd., Cambridge.

Police said the man was well dressed and they thought he had died naturally since no marks of violence were found.

Patrolmen William McCarthy and William Horan of the Metropolitan police found the body alongside the road as they patrolled the parkway in a cruising car. At Cambridge City Hospital the man was pronounced dead.

Movie House Opera Gives Young Thrill

Grand opera went democratic in a big way last night, when Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro" moved into a movie house, and the old Boston Opera House sulked in darkness, inhabited only by ghosts of a more gala day.

Top-hatted and bejeweled patrons ran the gauntlet of huge crowds of neck-craners at the first downtown presentation of opera in Boston, while for blocks around the Metropolitan Theater traffic was jammed by taxis and limousines.

In many ways it was one of the most brilliant openings in years, yet it definitely was not dominated by "old Boston." The dowagers were in the minority, and tiaras few and far between.

MOVIE THEATER: NIX!

Many blue-blooded subscribers apparently turned their opening night tickets over to the younger members of the family, for the debutantes were well represented. As one deb expressed it:

"Grandmother wanted to hear it, but she just couldn't bring herself to come to a movie theater."

Grandma would probably never recover, had she gone, from the effect of a huge sign announcing that Bing Crosby and Dorothy Lamour will follow Rise Stevens, Ezio Pinza and Irene Jessner at the Met.

Despite the youth of the audience, and the comment of one elderly grande dame that "there's practically nobody here," the audience represented present-day Boston society, dressed to the teeth and very gay.

And most of them agreed that the Metropolitan Theater was more comfortable and provided a better background for the spectacle than the Opera House does.

Downtowners in the lounge, social registerites sipped champagne at a striking circular bar, along with celebrities, politicians and handsomely dressed young couples not in the blue book.

HANG OVER RAIL

Between the acts, the real music devotees in the balconies hung over the rail of the promenade and surveyed the gay throng in the crush of the lobby.

And while Boston's opening night was not enlivened by any such performance as that of one Mr. Knight who stood on his head at New York's show, we had those two gentlemen who preferred the bar.

This duo of music-lovers discussed the first act thoroughly over their champagne. So thoroughly that one of them wove his way back in the middle of the third act, hunted hopelessly for his seat, then gave up and returned to his companion at the bar.

Swampscott Boy, 12, Lost in Woods, Found

A widespread search by police, firemen and Boy Scouts for a boy lost in the Swampscott woods was ended when Patrolman Joseph Ryan found Guy Spinale, 12, of Archer st., Swampscott, off Eureka ave.

BRIDE'S BIG SURPRISES WIN DIVORCE FOR HER

Among surprises being married to Paul R. McCarthy of Baxter st., South Boston, brought her, Mrs. Evelyn R. McCarthy testified in Suffolk Probate Court today, was the one she got when she learned that all the time she thought he had been at sea, working as a cook, he had actually been in Deer Island House of Correction.

She also got something of a surprise, Mrs. McCarthy told Judge Robert Gardiner Wilson, Jr., when her lawyer had papers in her divorce suit served on McCarthy.

"Your honor, that man came and asked me to put off getting a divorce so he could get out of the draft by claiming to be married," she said.

ON BIKE BUILT FOR 2

Mrs. McCarthy, whose maiden name was Evelyn Morris, said she was 24 years old and lived across the street from McCarthy in Baxter st.

"We were married in an elopement to Salem, N. H.," she said. "He told me later we'd be married in the church and set up housekeeping in an apartment. His mother was going to give him."

"After we were married we came back to our separate homes in Baxter st. Nights we'd go to the movies, but I wouldn't see him at any other times—except on the street, riding by on a motorcycle, with some other girl on the seat behind him."

Judge Wilson granted the divorce. It apparently was a day of surprises in court, for the next person to be taken back was Judge Wilson himself.

He was "amazed" by a 25-year-old, raven-haired mother, who refused to take the custody of her 13-months-old daughter when she was granted a divorce.

JUDGE SUSPECTS SWAP

"What is this?" he asked Mrs. Dorothea C. Jones Mascari. "Is this some sort of trade between you and your husband for a divorce?" I'm amazed. Where is the natural affection of a mother for a child? This certainly has never happened in my court before."

Mrs. Mascari said her husband, Salvatore, of Allston st., West End, was a bartender and insanely jealous.

"Once in the summer of 1938 when I had been out with my sister he threw a clock at me and punched my teeth out—right out through my cheek," she said.

"I see your husband filed a suit for divorce, charging you with misconduct in July, 1938, at Hull with a person unknown, and charging you with misconduct on other occasions. That suit was never pressed. Was that why you got those beatings?" Judge Wilson asked.

"No, your honor," the woman said. "He was insanely jealous."

FOR BABY'S OWN GOOD

Mascari was in the corridor with a lawyer, but did not contest the case. The divorce was granted and then Mrs. Mascari refused custody of her baby, Jacqueline. It was then Judge Wilson was amazed.

It was explained Mrs. Mascari thought her daughter would have better care with her husband.

SHE'S NO KIDNAPER—Anna Kuzuk, 10, of West End, took 18-months-old John Downes out for airing. When hours passed, parents of baby became worried, called police, and city-wide hunt was on. Then, Anna melanchantly arrived home with the baby, explained they had spent the day on Boston Common and munched hot dogs. Police were called off.

BLAST FATAL TO 20 PUZZLE TO SKIPPER

NEW YORK, March 23 (AP)—Captain John Saxon, master of the 9316-ton tanker Cities Service Denver, said today he could not explain the explosion 80 miles off Cape Lookout, N. C., last Monday, with a loss of 20 lives.

Testifying before a U. S. Bureau of Inspection and navigation board of inquiry, he said the vessel was carrying 104,500 barrels of Texas crude oil from Port Arthur when the blast occurred, buckling the decks and shooting a mass of flames over the vessel.

"I was sitting in my cabin under the pilot house reading when I heard something that sounded like an explosion," he testified. "The light and port glasses in my quarters were broken. I stepped out on deck but couldn't see anything. I then went on the bridge and found the glass in the pilot house was broken."

Saxon said the third mate, then on duty, sounded a general alarm when flames shot toward the bridge, and he telephoned the engineer to turn on steam to fight the fire only to find the explosion had broken the fire lines.

A radio alarm was sent on an emergency set—the main one was destroyed—and the crew fought the fire for 30 minutes before abandoning ship, he said.

Seventeen men got away in one life boat and five in another, he said. Nineteen others were apparently trapped in their bunks. Another died on land from injuries.

He said that relations between officers and crew were "good" and he had never noticed any "un-American activities" among the men.

BABY BEATER MENACED BY JAIL MATES

Francis Wenzler, 27, of South Boston, was in virtual solitary confinement today at Deer Island, as officials sought to protect the convicted baby beater against the wrath of prisoners.

Wenzler, sentenced last Tuesday for the brutal beating of his 2-year-old stepdaughter, fled to a deputy after a series of threats and requested to be locked up.

The prisoners, it was also reported, had been threatening Wenzler for the past two days, telling him they had learned of his treatment of his tiny stepdaughter and that since they did not think he had been given "enough," they would make up for it by beating him.

Wenzler was reported to have told a deputy that he tried to explain his act to the prisoners, but they pushed him and reviled him so that he feared for his future safety. He asked to be confined where they could do no harm to him.

M'Devitt Urges Ban on Divorce

Declaring that America's first line of defense is the home and family, Rep. James P. McDevitt of Boston today was on record for strict limitation of the grounds for divorce in the Bay State.

"Judges hand out divorces to practically everyone who applies for them on the slightest ground and petter, all cloaked under the terms of cruel and abusive treatment," he told the legislative committee on legal affairs.

"France fell because of her lax moral condition brought on by disregard for the marriage bond; Massachusetts and the United States are headed in the same direction unless something is done to halt the rising divorce rate."

HUBBY LOAFS HIS WAY OUT OF WEDLOCK AS SHE WORKS

She had a husband who apparently didn't think it necessary for a wife and husband both to work, titian-haired Mrs. Mary Sanders, 30, of East Eighth st., South Boston, testified in Suffolk Probate Court today.

Winning a divorce from Howard Sanders of parts unknown, Mrs. Sanders said that she eloped with him to Nashua, N. H., in September of 1932.

"We got along fine the first few months," she testified. "My husband was a compositor. After a while he made me get a job. I did. Then he quit work and loafed. Finally, one fine day, he disappeared and I haven't seen him since."

"Maybe you didn't get a good enough job," said Judge Wilson. Before Judge John V. Mahoney two wives sought annulment of their marriages on testimony they discovered their respective mates had been previously married.

Mrs. Florence Bearce of East Seventh st., South Boston, said she lived more than two years with Douglas Bearce, after marrying him at Wintport, Me., in June, 1938, before discovering he had been married to Ruth Kincaide, and never divorced.

"Even then he made me live with him by telling me he'd shoot me if I left him," she said. She said he was now serving six months in jail for bigamy. Annulment was granted.

Mrs. Margaret Doherty of Sawyer st., Dorchester, said she wed Francis P. Doherty of Sagamore st., Dorchester, in an elopement marriage to Nashua, N. H., in August, 1939, after she had known him five months. Both worked on the WPA.

"He said we'd be married by a priest later. So after the marriage we went back to our respective homes."

"Why?" asked Judge Mahoney. "We had no place else to go," she said. "Later when I asked him about being married by a priest he told me it wouldn't do me any good that he was married already."

She said they had never lived to-

'OUT OF NIGHT' AUTHOR HELD FOR DEPORTATION

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Three Justice Department said today Richard Julius Herman Krebs, who wrote the best seller "Out of the Night" under the name Jan Valtin, had been arrested in New York to face deportation proceedings.

Krebs was arrested in the immigration offices in New York and is being held at Ellis Island under $5000 bail.

Krebs is a German citizen who described his experiences as a Communist agitator both in Germany and among sailors in this country in his lengthy autobiographical work which became a best seller.

He furnished bond and was released. New York immigration authorities said, with the understanding he would return to Ellis island for a hearing at a later date.

Only last Wednesday night Krebs, or Valtin, introduced on the radio from "an unnamed spot in America," told of his experiences at the hands of the German Gestapo and said "there is hardly anyone in Germany who now does not have some horrible memory."

HAS CRIMINAL RECORD

Federal law provides for deportation of an unwanted alien to his native country, which in this case would be Germany. In some instances, aliens facing deportation are permitted to leave voluntarily, but officials said that it appeared that this course would not be open to Krebs because of his having a criminal record.

The department said in a statement that Krebs admitted entering the United States illegally on March 6, 1938, by jumping the ship Ary Lensen at Norfolk, Va., and that he served a 3-year sentence from 1926 to 1929 in California's San Quentin prison for assault.

Krebs was deported to Germany Dec. 9, 1929, after his release from San Quentin.

VARIETY OF CHARGES

These charges lie against Krebs: Illegal entry into the United States; conviction on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon prior to that entry; entering without permission after having been arrested and deported; belief in and advocacy of the overthrow of the government of the United States by violence at the time of entry, and membership in an organization which advocated such overthrow.

The department said that Krebs admitted having joined the Communist party in 1923, but claimed that he had quit the party in 1937, prior to his illegal entry into the United States the following year.

Record Farm Bill Wins O.K.

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—A record-breaking farm bill, carrying more than $1,340,000,000, won speedy approval today from the Senate by a vote of 75 to 15, after a record-breaking 100-hour debate.

Accepting scores of increases previously approved by a subcommittee, including $450,000,000 for party payments to farmers complying with Administration programs, the full committee recommended passage as a part of the effort by a powerful group of Senators demanding that farmers share more largely in the prosperity promised by the defense program.

Majority Leader Barkley (D.) of Kentucky, said the Senate would act on the farm bill Monday.

WILD AUTO WHEEL—Auto wheel tears free and rolls into baby carriage and Mrs. Mary Green of East Boston today, causing back injuries to the mother and lesser hurts to her Nancy, 19-months-old. Here, they are together... happy to have suffered no more.

Couple Held Here Face Mounting Check Charges

While a debonair man and an attractive brunette were being arraigned in municipal court today on a morals charge, bogus check complaints against them continued to pour in to Boston police headquarters from eastern cities and towns.

The couple, arrested in a raid on a Huntington ave. apartment, were John Robinson, 41, and Katherine Day, 24, both with many aliases. Pleading guilty to the morals charge, their cases were continued to April 4 for disposition.

Meantime, federal agents were said to have joined police in investigating the alleged check-forging activities of the couple, which officials say netted them thousands of dollars.

Special Officer Arthur Blood led the raid on the couple's Back Bay apartment.

A tip from the police of Southbridge led to the arrest of the couple here by Blood and Officer Roy Bates. The pair had used an expensive auto and liveried chauffeur as a "front" in passing the bogus checks, officials declared.

Robinson, who has a long police record, used the aliases of "Charles Howland" and "James Shea," while the girl also went under the names of Katherine Howard, Helen Leavitt and Helen Talbot.

16 N. E. Nurses To Army Camps

Sixteen New England reserve nurses were ordered to active duty today at three Bay State Army camps by Maj.-Gen. James A. Woodruff, First Corps Area commander.

With all but three of the nurses from Massachusetts, they were assigned to service, as follows:

Reporting to Camp Edwards—Phyllis R. Hunt, Worcester; Gertrude M. O'Neill, Providence; Ruth L. Kauffman, Fall River; Winona M. Chapin, Lewiston; Helen Merriarty, Cambridge; Sarah M. Gallagher, Boston.

Spelling Helps Hold 4 In Police Net

Now, this dapper, little, dark-complexioned man may be a shirt salesman. He may even be a farmer. But he's no speller.

Into the lineup at police headquarters strode four natty gentlemen in the custody of Detective Joseph Decker today.

Decker had arrested them at a Back Bay hotel where the New England Dairyman's Ass'n was holding a convention.

In their possession, said the detective, was a shiny New York limousine, loaded with decks of marked cards. In their rooms were other marked decks, loaded dice, and other paraphernalia of the professional gambler.

LIST OF CONVENTIONS

All were beautifully dressed. One had a long list of conventions in his pocket.

Lieut. James V. Crowley took over the questioning. He asked the smallest of the four, a little man:

"What's your business?"

"I'm a shirt salesman."

"How long since you sold a shirt?"

"A month."

"You a shirt salesman? You can't even spell shirt!"

At this innuendo the little man got mad.

"I certainly can!" he snapped.

"C-H-I-R-T."

After the laughter subsided Crowley said:

"You a dairyman?" The man shook his head. "Then where'd you get that dairyman's convention button on your coat?"

"$50 QUICKER THAN WINK."

"I found it in the corridor of the hotel."

"How did your name get on it?"

"Ooops!" said the little man.

"I forgot that."

Police, naming the four as members of a professional gambling ring in the practice of fleecing business men at conventions, said they would hold the quartet to learn if they are wanted anywhere.

One of the dairymen who made the complaint against the four said:

"Say, we were playing five-card stud, and I sat down to my first hand and got four cards and found I'd already lost $50. I quit."

U. S. Car Deaths Near Record

CHICAGO, March 28 (AP)—The National Safety Council reported today that last month was the second most fatal February on record, with 2560 persons dead as the result of traffic accidents in the United States.

The death toll was 22 per cent greater than in February, 1940, and it came within 30 of the all time high recorded in February, 1937.

These late figures brought traffic deaths for the first two months of 1941 up to 5370, a 16 per cent increase over the same period, last year.

Statisticians found cities continued to have fewer fatal accidents than rural districts. Almost 200 cities still have perfect records for 1941. Pittsfield and Haverhill, Mass., had no fatalities.

Youth Robs 360 Mailboxes, Admits Crime Doesn't Pay

Abraham Shufin, a 22-year-old Dorchester youth, held for robbing mailboxes in Roxbury, admitted in the lineup at Boston police headquarters today that crime doesn't seem to pay.

"I robbed 360 mailboxes in Roxbury and all I got was six or eight checks," he said. "I had to have the money to pay a hookie."

He was captured when he trailed a mailman in Roxbury yesterday to watch the boxes in which mail was put. The police were trailing him at the same time.

World'll Be Broke in Year

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
Distributed by International News Service

It costs England so close to $60,000,000 a day for war that you can keep the difference.

What makes it all the tougher is that this war is the last one warmed over. I said that in 1921 and it has come as true as three feet to the yard.

Germany is spending that much; Russia gets into the scrimmage she will spend the same amount, and so will we. You cannot take any more out of a barrel than you put into it.

In a year the entire world will be as busted as hearts in New York and fenders in Los Angeles.

The world will spend close to $60,000,000,000 a year for shooting crackers. And when it is all over it will not prove anything more than an idiot catching his thumb. Back in April, 1921, when I wrote the line, "the next World War will be the last one warmed over," I was using a grapefruit for a crystal ball and only half-a-one at that.

Posterity will get the bill for that just like eggs make omelets. I'm not worried over that because I just helped to pay off the last pension to the last widow of the War of 1812.

We don't build for the future any more. The future is billed for it.

Well, it looks like posterity will like swimming lessons in black ink and down in the red.

BRITISH CIVILIAN RAID DEAD 28,859; TOPS ARMY 50 TO 1

LONDON, March 28 (AP)—About 50 civilians have been killed for each military fatality in German air raids on Britain since the war's start, it was disclosed today in an official statement which placed the civilian dead at 28,859 and the seriously wounded at 40,166.

The exact military total was not given.

The figures were disclosed at Newcastle by Ellen Wilkinson, joint parliamentary secretary of the ministry of home security.

She added that the military fatalities in Britain were about one-fiftieth of the civilian total.

S.S. PRESIDENT GARFIELD
New Liner in Hub Today

New U. S. Ship Gets Cargo Here

A big treat was in store today for lovers of the waterfront as the new steamship, President Garfield, docked at Pier 44, Charlestown, after its arrival direct from the builders' yards at Newport News, Va.

Constructed at a cost of $3,000,000, it is the most lavishly appointed of any American merchant vessel yet built for round-the-world service.

It is the fourth of seven being built by the Maritime Commission for the America President Lines' globe-girdling service.

Irving T. Sorge, New England president of the lines, said the ship would be loaded with New England merchandise before leaving for New York to take on another cargo and passengers for the maiden voyage.

This disclosure was made after a conference of shoe manufacturers called in Washington by Miss Harriet Elliott, consumer commissioner of the national defense commission.

The revelation that shoe prices may go up was contained in the following statement:

"Prices will not advance beyond increases in costs, and the present outlook is for not more than moderate increases."

"Recent advances in shoe prices have resulted in large part from what must be regarded as unwarranted apprehension over the supply situation. The question of government pegging of materials prices in the event of runaway speculation was discussed (at the conference)."

Miss Elliott reported that her division was working with the U. S. Maritime Commission to assure adequate shipping facilities for the importation of hides essential for shoe production.

COP-HATING WALTER PAYS HIS $5 FINE

Walter J. Moran, president of the Somerville board of aldermen, testified in Brookline court today that what with helping to celebrate a wedding reception, with a woman trying to commit suicide in front of the cab in which he was riding and listening to a lot of policemen telling him to go home, it was no wonder he was shaky.

Moran, also a State Representative, was on trial before Judge Daniel A. Rollins before a courtroom packed to overflowing — mostly Moran's friends from Somerville — on a charge of drunkenness.

It was, he admitted at the beginning of a three-quarter-hour speech in his own defense, quite a busy morning he had last Sunday.

HAD TWO DRINKS

"In Brookline I met a fellow celebrating a wedding, so I had two drinks with him and took a cab away. I was sitting with the driver, but you can't get drunk on two drinks. On Washington st. in Brookline a woman tried to commit suicide by throwing herself in front of the cab."

Brookline police records revealed that last Sunday a woman tried to commit suicide three times, once by throwing herself from a bus, before she was sent to the Psychopathic.

"I got out," Moran continued. "I was shaking, and I saw a police car and stopped it. The cops told me I was drunk, to go home, but while I was talking the woman tried to kill herself under the bus and they went over and picked her up."

"I DON'T LIKE COPS"

Not satisfied then, Moran went on, he went to the Brookline police station as a citizen to report the matter, but the sergeant there said: "Listen, I'll give you a break, you're drunk. Go home," Moran testified.

"Then what happened?" asked Judge Rollins.

"They threw me in the lockup," Moran said. "And listen, the service there is terrible. They don't visit you, sanitation is bad, there aren't enough blankets, and they wouldn't give me a cigarette till my tongue was hanging out at 1 p. m."

"After a consultation with counsel and persuasion, Judge Rollins admitted a little too far. He fined me $5. The matter is a citizen, not that I had asked the matter a little too far. He fined Moran $5 and Moran paid."

16 JAPS MUST AID AXIS OR FACE WAR ALONE

16 JAPS MUST AID
AXIS OR FACE
WAR ALONE

BERLIN, March 28 (AP)—Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka, here for talks with German leaders, must make up his mind whether Japan will enter actively into the fight against Britain or be left to face both her and the United States alone later, informed German political circles intimated today.

The taking of Singapore—key British naval base in the Far East—was mentioned specifically in connection with the subject of Japanese participation in the fight. If Japan declines to enter the fray at present, a victorious Germany and Italy might later show disinterest in Japan's plight, in the opinion of those circles.

That Japan could realize her ambitions in the Far East only by running into British and American opposition was taken as axiomatic. Matsuoka's program today included a talk with Walter Funk, economics minister and president of the Reichsbank, and a luncheon meeting with Hitler.

Prior to meeting Funk, he had another conference with Von Ribbentrop, with whom he talked at length yesterday.

Matsuoka was Hitler's luncheon guest today with Reichsmarshal Goering, Propaganda Minister Goebbels, Admiral Eric Raeder, Field Marshals Walter von Brauchitsch, Wilhelm Keitel, Karl Rudolf Gerd von Runstedt, Fedor von Bock, Ritter von Leeb, Walter von Reichenau, von Kluge and Albert Kesselring, Economics Minister Funk, Dr. Alfred Rosenberg and a long list of other high Nazi party and government figures.

Nazis Press Japs For Axis Aid Pledge

TOKYO, March 28 (INS)—Germany gave Japan a veiled warning that Nippon must not expect Axis aid in her South Atlantic drive unless Tokyo pledges assistance to Germany.

The Berlin correspondent of the influential newspaper Asahi telephoned from the scene of the Matsuoka-Hitler conversations that Germany is pressing Japan to formulate a definite Anglo-American policy.

Such a clean-cut policy, German authorities reportedly said, is of paramount importance at the present juncture, "even overshadowing Japan's aims in China and southeastern Asia."

"Germany means that Japan will not be able to eradicate the evils attendant upon the Chinese affair unless she determines fundamental policies with regard to Britain and the United States," the Asahi writer said.

BERLIN, March 28 (AP)—Informed Germans said today that the British, "in precipitate retreat," left behind airplane motors, bombs, machine guns, ammunition and gasoline when Nazi forces took E. Agheila, a British outpost southwest of Bengasi, Libya, Tuesday.

The British said El Agheila was abandoned before the Germans entered and minimized its importance.—Editors Note.

Tunney in Harvard Showdown On Junior 5th Column Charge

Embroiled in a bitter controversy over his charges that a number of Harvard students were being influenced by "parlor pinks," Gene Tunney plans to force a "showdown" tomorrow when some 500 students and teachers meet at a conference on educational problems at Harvard.

Tunney drew the wrath of both men and women students when his American Youth Foundation "issued" printed charges that the conference is Communist-run and warned of the threat of "Junior Fifth Column" activities in the Harvard yard.

When the session opens it is understood that one of the former agitator's aides, Stephen MacArthur, will be on hand to distribute a flood of pamphlets entitled "How to Stop the Junior Fifth Column." Tunney's organization specifically named the American Student Union and the American Youth Congress, called Communistic Trojan horses.

In reply, Miss Anne Grant of Melville, of the conference's executive committee, declared that conference was being victimized "a bunch of professional disorganizers." The American Youth Congress is not sponsoring the meeting, but is merely "co-operating," she said.

Bruce Barton, Jr., son of the former congressman of New York, also a member of the executive committee, stated that "of all the conferences of students I've ever attended, this is the least open to such unwarranted charges of Communism."

Among sponsors of the conference are Prof. Kirtley Mather of Harvard, Prof. E. O. Mathiessen of Harvard, Prof. Gordon Allport of Harvard, Prof. Daniel Carroll of the University of Vermont, Prof. Harrison L. Harley of Simmons College and Dr. Hulda Rees McGarvey of Smith College.

The unscheduled demonstration, which grew in volume every hour, came after word was whispered through the city that a new anti-Axis Yugoslav government had been formed.

ROME, March 28 (AP)—Countess Edda Ciano, eldest daughter of Premier Mussolini, has been awarded a bronze medal for aid to those aboard the torpedoed hospital ship Po in Valona harbor March 14, a dispatch from Tirana, Albanian capital, said today.

Gen. Ugo Cavallero, Italian commander in Albania, pinned on the medal in a ceremony at which five other Red Cross nurses were decorated. Silver medals were awarded posthumously to three nurses.

The citation said the countess, wife of Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, was aboard the Po, which was hit by two torpedoes in a night attack. "She exerted herself to sustain and aid survivors," it added. "Throwing herself into the sea as the ship sank rapidly she gave everyone precedence in entering lifeboats with admirable altruism, an outstanding spirit of sacrifice."

Salesman Held In $10,213 Thefts

Judge Frankland W. L. Miles in Roxbury court raised bail from $3000 to $10,000 today for a Roxbury paint salesman, who surrendered to police last week to face charges of larceny from his former employer.

The action was taken after new charges raised total number of complaints against Morris Rodin, 38, of Acton st., Hartford, Ct., to 46. The complaints allege Rodin stole $10,213 in roofing supplies from the Boston Putty Works, Jamaica Plain, by the means of fake orders.

Rodin admitted his guilt in court today, but Judge Miles declined jurisdiction and ordered him held for the grand jury.

Slavs End Axis Pact, Proclaim Neutrality

common cause" with the new government.

Flags still were flying in the capital. Trucks filled with soldiers still were rumbling through the streets toward the frontiers.

JOVE POPULAR IN U. S.
United States Minister Lane told Premier Simovic and Foreign Minister Menthoblo Nincic he was authorized on behalf of President Roosevelt to inform the government that news of the Yugoslav stroke had caused "an immediate and popular reaction in America" and that the event "constitutes a matter for self-congratulation for every liberty-loving man and woman."

While Yugoslavia awaited the reaction of Hitler, clamorous demonstrations occurred in the Belgrade cathedral in the presence of King Peter at the signing of a new government by the Serb throne.

When the automobiles of the United States and British ministers arrived at the cathedral a cheering crowd broke through the police cordon. Many in the crowd tried to shake the hands and even to kiss the envoys.

CHEERS FOR ROOSEVELT

After the ceremony crowds almost mobbed the car carrying Minister Lowe and the American military attaché, Col Louis Fortier, hoisting them on their shoulders and crying, "Long live Roosevelt! Long live America!"

The cathedral was packed with many officers who gave rousing cheers as Peter entered the building.

The young King, who formally took over the royal power which he normally would not have received until September at his 18th birthday, wore the blue uniform of a general of aviation.

The patriarch, wearing a gold and red robe, presented a cross for him to kiss.

Troops guarded the German and Italian legations constantly. A German legation attaché said almost all Germans who had not already left the country were in refuge at the legation, eating "one-dish" meals and fearing beatings if they went on the streets.

Considerable excitement was created by a German language broadcast of unknown origin which predicted:

"Yugoslavia probably will enlarge the war area by aiding England."

NAZI EDITOR ARRESTED

Danilo Gregoric, editor of the pro-German newspaper Vreme, who went to Germany to pave the way for the signing of the pact, was reported under arrest, and the paper suddenly took a pro-British tone.

Dispatches of DNB and Stefani, official German and Italian news agencies, gave way to headlines over English sources.

It was learned, meanwhile, that Vladimir Macek, old Croat peasant party leader, was not fully decided to remain in the cabinet. He was a hold-over from the Cvetkovic cabinet which went out yesterday. Macek was understood to fear that Croatia, in the north, would be forced to bear the brunt of German and Italian attacks in case of conflict and to desire fulfillment of the Vienna accord.

The Governor of Croatia was understood to be attempting to negotiate between Macek and Simovic to arrange for continued Croat participation in the cabinet.

WANTS PEACE, BUT—

High diplomatic sources said the Yugoslav cabinet had informed German Minister Viktor von Heekin in reply to an "urgent" German demand for an explanation of yesterday's coup that neither King Peter nor Parliament would ratify the Axis pact.

Gen. Simovic, these sources said, informed the German minister that Yugoslavia wishes to remain on peaceful terms with Germany and Italy as well as with all other countries but that fulfillment of the full terms of the Axis pact was "impossible because it would be contrary to the will of the Yugoslav people."

Nevertheless, the Yugoslav army was mobilizing 1,200,000 fighting men and moving them into battle stations. Reports from Sofia said Nazi troops occupying Bulgaria were rushing toward the Yugoslav frontier.

The cabinet action followed a day of violent jubilation in which the Belgrade populace, bitterly anti-Axis, shouted for war and hailed the early morning coup which put King Peter and General Simovic in power and ousted the pro-Axis cabinet of Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic.

The new cabinet, informed sources asserted today, will put the country back on the policy of strict neutrality which Yugoslavia attempted up until the time Cvetkovic, Foreign Minister Aleksander Cincar-Markovic, and Regent Prince Paul succumbed to German pressure.

Whether Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini were ready to let Yugoslavia return to her former status in view of the Vienna affiliation ceremony Tuesday remained a burning question.

At any rate the feeling here was that the cabinet has put the whole decision up to Hitler now. If he decided Yugoslavia must fulfill the terms of the pact, sources close to the cabinet said, the army was ready to fight, backed by a united nation.

On the other hand, it was said von Heekin was assured that Yugoslavia had no intention of participating in any combination with Britain or Greece and that the neutrality policy would be as firm toward London and Athens, and in

Yugoslavs Have Regular Army of About 450,000

By CAPT. JOHN H. CRAIGE
U. S. Marine Corps, Retired
Written Especially for International News Service

The Yugoslavs have the reputation of being the best fighting men in the Balkans. Their nation, with a population of about 16 million, can put a million and a quarter soldiers in the field.

Established Yugoslav Army formations consist of about 30 divisions of 450,000 men, with excellent field artillery, but the army is short of heavy guns and specialized equipment. There is one tank brigade with about 200 tanks and the air force is organized in 4 squadrons totaling in the neighborhood of 1,000 planes, most of them old types.

Weak flank of Yugoslavia's position lies in the north, where plains and broad river valleys meet the frontiers of Austria, Hungary and Rumania.

If war comes, the Yugoslavs will need much aid from Britain in planes, tanks and guns to meet Nazi mechanized thrusts in that sector.

exactly the same measure, as toward the Axis.

A promise of help was believed implied in Prime Minister Winston Churchill's prompt blessing of the new government, and Greek spokesmen here confidently expressed belief Yugoslavia soon would become Greece's comrade at arms against the Axis.

NAZIS DISSATISFIED

On the other hand, Von Heekin was given assurance that Yugoslav policy would continue to be one of friendship with Italy and Germany.

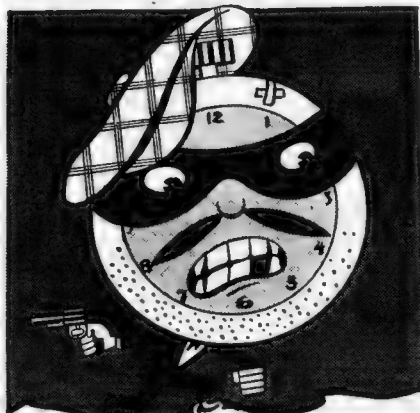

Germany's "urgent demand" for clarification, however, was seen in some circles as evidence that Berlin was dissatisfied with the answer and some neutral sources surmised the new government might be giving Berlin a soft answer to turn away Nazi wrath until Yugoslavia has time to complete her military preparations.

The stormy Belgrade populace seemed to take it for granted that Gen. Simovic's new government would repudiate wholly the ousted premier, Dragisa Cvetkovic, and his foreign Minister, Aleksander Cincar-Markovic, who signed with the Axis Tuesday in Vienna.

Jubilant crowds tramped the streets of the capital until the early morning hours today and one prominent citizen expressed their attitude in the words:

"If this government doesn't resist, we'll get another that will."

Many Italians Taken At African 'Verdun'

CAIRO, Egypt, March 28 (AP)—British troops are in hot pursuit of Italian forces retreating headlong toward Asmara, capital of Eritrea, following occupation of the key mountain town of Cheren by British Imperial forces, the middle east command announced today.

A "large number" of the 35,000 Fascist defenders of the African "Verdun" were reported captured by the British troops who battered their way into Cheren late Wednesday night after a seven-week siege.

Along with these still-uncounted captives, the war bulletin said the Italians "in their precipitate retreat" left behind large quantities of war materials.

Remnants of the Italian forces were headed for Asmara, 42 miles southeast of Cheren, and it was possible that they might try to go on to Massaua, the colony's chief seaport, to make a stand or escape from the hard-pressing British forces.

In Ethiopia, where the British knocked another foundation stone from Italy's crumbling East African empire with the capture of Harar, the British command announced that "in all sectors the situation continues to develop to our advantage."

Rome Admits Harar And Cheren Have Fallen

ROME, March 28 (AP)—The Italian high command reported today the important walled city of Harar in Ethiopia had been evacuated "to avert its bombing" and acknowledged British occupation of the Italian fortress of Cheren in Eritrea.

"After six weeks of uninterrupted and bloody battle, enemy troops have occupied Cheren," the communique said. "The battle is continuing in the immediate neighborhood."

"Our troops have evacuated Harar to avert its bombardment. Our bombing formations machine-gunned and scatter-bombed various enemy motor vehicles east of the city."

RAF Pounds Nazi Industrial Center

LONDON, March 28 (AP) The RAF pounded the German industrial centers of Cologne and Duesseldorf with "many heavy bombs" in overnight raids extending from the Rhine to the "invasion ports" of Dunkirk, Brest and Calais on the Nazi-held French coast, the air ministry announced today.

In the war at sea, the admiralty announced that the submarine Parthian had torpedoed a 6000-ton supply or troop ship and a 10,000-ton tanker in an Italian-escorted convoy south of Italy.

German daylight raids touched off an alarm in London this morning, the first since March 23, but three planes headed for the capital turned back apparently without dropping any bombs. There were no reports of Luftwaffe activities over England during the night.

The RAF night air assaults, a communique said, followed up daylight bomb and machine-gun assaults on German naval and supply ships from the Frisian Islands to the coast of Brittany and produced "good results."

Two especially large fires were observed at Cologne, returning pilots related, and at Duesseldorf flashes from bursting bombs were declared "clearly visible in the factory area to the east of the Rhine and near the main railroad station."

Three British planes were acknowledged missing from the night operations and two from yesterday's.

'Abide by Pact,' Nazi Warning

molished and how German nationals were manhandled.

These dispatches reminded observers of similar reports at earlier times from places such as Czechoslovakia and Poland, as a result of which the Reich has felt compelled to send "protective" troops across the border.

So far as could be ascertained, however, the German government had made no formal decision as to its future course. This, it was emphasized, will depend upon a full and formal statement of King Peter's aims which, it is felt, cannot be much longer delayed.

The protest was lodged amid solemn warnings of "drastic developments" unless Yugoslavia speedily assures Berlin that the new Belgrade government will recognize Yugoslavian adherence to the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo alliance.

Authoritative German quarters said relations between Berlin and Belgrade were approaching a critical stage as a result of Yugoslav failure to announce its adherence to the pact.

Informed circles said the protest represented a first German warning that the Reich will "not tolerate" Yugoslavian "excesses." They also held the German government will hold the Yugoslav government responsible for the consequences of any further anti-German outbreaks.

NAZIS CLAIM TRUMPS

The warning to Belgrade was accompanied by authoritative statements that the German army in the Balkans is "ready to deal with all emergencies."

These quarters pointed out the German forces in the Balkans have a "matchless strategic position against Yugoslavia" as a result of occupation of Rumania, and Bulgaria by German troops.

Furthermore, it was pointed out, Italian troops are stationed in force to the north of Yugoslavia. German quarters readily admitted that the Serbs are good soldiers, but doubt was expressed they could withstand the overwhelming odds of a German attack for any length of time.

Berlin sources claimed that in any contest Yugoslavian internal unity would be weakened by friction among the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes.

BRITAIN CALLED ENGINEER OF COUP

Slav Upset Is First For Hitler's Diplomats

By J. C. OESTREICHER

International News Service Foreign Editor

The fine and practised hand of British diplomacy was seen by seasoned observers today in the dramatic revolution by which King Peter of Yugoslavia threw out his pro-German government and upset Hitler's Balkan apple cart.

Outwardly, the theatrical coup d'etat in Belgrade had all the aspects of spontaneity. It seemed that King Peter, representing the will of the Serbian people, suddenly got fed up with the idea of trucking to the Axis and exploded with the characteristic violence of his Karageorgievitch blood.

But when the full story is told by post-war historians some day, there may be revealed a cool, calculated program of international intrigue by which Britain, for the first time since this war began, outsmarted Hitler at his own game.

DELAY HELPED ARMY

To begin with, it must not be forgotten that Yugoslavia dilly-dallied for three weeks even before Prince Paul, the former regent, gave his assent to Slavian participation in the Axis. Three weeks was time enough for Yugoslavia's army of a million or more to prepare itself for attack.

Secondly, the revolution did not seem to take London by surprise at all.

In almost no time after the news became known, Prime Minister Churchill was on tap with one of his polished speeches.

"Yugoslavia," he said, "has found its soul." Churchill has never made a secret of the fact he is useless as an extemporaneous speaker. His intimates tell of the "blood, toil, tears and sweat" that he himself puts into his speeches. He usually works throughout the night preceding an important address in Commons. With his wife as audience, he even rehearses before a mirror to be certain each phrase, each gesture will have the desired effect.

ALL WELL-LAID PLOT

One theory, subject of keen speculation today, was that Prince Paul and his aides, Premier Dragisa Cvetkovitch and Foreign Minister Aleksandar Cincar-Markovic, may have been "in on the play."

As has been pointed out, they took three weeks to "make up their minds" to accept the invitation from Berlin to join the Axis. Then they proceeded to Vienna to sign up, only to fit upon their return to Belgrade into a pattern of intrigue. Paul is presumed to have gone to Greece, native land of his wife. The ministers were sent to jail, but already have been reported released.

It is not impossible this may all have been part of a carefully conceived plan. Paul and the others may have just masqueraded their way to Vienna, submitting themselves to a domination repugnant to the Yugoslavian people, in the knowledge they were doing their national duty.

In any case, by accident or design, they gave King Peter a perfect opportunity to denounce the whole arrangement, install a new regime and remove the "Axis taint" from his councils of state. After all, Peter is the king and Paul was only a regent. The king's word is still law.

Reject Resolve On Child Labor

The legislative committee on constitutional law today unanimously rejected a resolution calling for the ratification of the child labor amendment.

Rejection came after a spokesman for Cardinal O'Connell and A. Lawrence Lowell, president emeritus of Harvard University, had voiced opposition to ratification.

The committee's adverse action means that the proposal is now shelved for the remainder of the present biennial session. So far, 28 States have ratified the child labor amendment, with 35 necessary for enactment.

IDA KAIN'S FIGURE FACTS BEGIN MONDAY

Wouldn't you like to have a new and attractive figure for spring without sacrificing her three square meals a day? You'll find the secret in Ida Jean Kain's diet column "Your Figure, Madame," which begins next Monday in the Boston American.

Ida Kain is one of the Boston's foremost authorities on problems of everyday diet, and points the way to health and happiness through proportional blending of food and exercise.

SHOULD WOW LADIES

The first in Miss Kain's series, "A New Figure for Spring," should wow the ladies. Through years of close study and practical experience, she has acquired expert knowledge and sympathetic understanding of diet problems as they affect the average woman.

She has the rare gift of presenting the fundamental principles of diet and health in such an interesting and convincing manner that the average person can grasp them without any difficulty whatever.

The modern Miss and the modern Madame who set out to acquire an attractive figure find themselves face to face with the food problem. That is where Miss Kain's expert knowledge and experience become valuable.

SAFE, SOUND ADVICE

She knows, through practical experience at the Battle Creek Sanatorium as medical dietitian, the value and necessity for safe and sound advice on problems of nutrition and physical exercise.

That's why feminine readers anxiously await the first in Miss Kain's series, "A New Figure for Spring." Next Monday in the Boston American.

3 Ships Sunk By Nazi Flier

BERLIN, March 28 (AP)—One German flier sank three merchant ships totaling 15,000 tons in a Nazi air attack on a convoy off the southwest coast of Wales yesterday, the high command announced today.

The daily communique attributed the sinkings to a Capt. Mueller, who "alone destroyed all three merchantmen" in dive attacks. Yesterday the sinkings were credited to more than one bomber.

Enemy Warship Sunk, Italians Say

ROME, March 28 (AP)—Italian warcraft entered Suda Bay on the Greek island of Crete Tuesday night, sank an "enemy warship" and inflicted heavy damage on other naval forces and transports, the Fascist high command declared today.

The communique did not indicate the size of the Italian units which participated in the attack, referring to them merely as "naval assault craft."

Costly Stores Left By Polar Explorers

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Leaving behind them costly stores of equipment buried indefinitely in the Polar snows, the men of the United States Antarctic expedition voyaged homeward today after almost two years at the bottom of the world.

Officials in radio communication with the historic cutter Bear disclosed that the 28 men evacuated by plane earlier this week from the expedition's ice-bound east base left behind everything they could not bring out on their backs or in their pockets.

Personal effects, food sufficient for months, books and scientific equipment were included. All the supplies, however, are expected to be safe until the next expedition arrives—possibly years hence. Provisions are non-existent in the Antarctic.

Also abandoned were the expedition's 27-ton "Snow Cruiser," buildings, cooking equipment, power tools and other bulky items, but from the outset there was no intention of bringing these back.

Besides the 25 men on the Bear, en route to Punta Arenas, Chile, there are 33 men from the west base homeward bound aboard the Interior Department survey ship North Star. The two groups were separated by some 1200 miles during their Antarctic stay.

Both ships will leave the Chilean port about April 2 for the United States, the North Star being due May 15 at Seattle and the Bear five days later at Boston.

REMOVED BY AIR
Original plans contemplated a five or six-year stay in the Antarctic for the expedition, but its work was ended prematurely when Congress refused to vote any further funds in addition to two appropriations totaling $321,000.

The men from the east base were removed in two emergency flights which officials termed "remarkable," because the Bear had been blocked by ice for more than a month from reaching the camp site in Marquette Bay, Palmer Peninsula.

They were flown in plane capacity loads of 14 men first to Mikelson Island, 112 miles to the north, and then transported to the Bear by whaleboat.

R. I. Senate Seeks to Delay Gansett Start

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 28 (INS)—The State Senate here yesterday adopted a resolution calling for the Narragansett Racing Ass'n. operators of the Pawtucket horse racing plant, to postpone the opening of the spring meet from Saturday, April 12, to Monday, April 14, because April 12 falls on Holy day.

The resolution was introduced by Sen. William G. Troy, Democratic floor leader.

35c Parking Move Gains

Demands for maximum parking charge of 35 cents a day at Intown lots gained momentum today as City Councilman Maurice H. Sullivan of Brighton sought action setting that amount as the legal limit.

Sullivan asked City Corporation Counsel Robert Cutler for his opinion on four such proposals and requested him to draw up a legal ordinance if he finds them constitutional.

The four points Sullivan sought to have included in the law were:

- 1—Establishment of a maximum fee of 35 cents for parking spaces licensed by the city.
- 2—Provision for fines and penalties for such spaces which do not provide proper egress for all cars parked.
- 3—Establishment of liability for theft from, or damage to, any car parked in a space anywhere in Boston, where the owner, agent or employee demands the key to the car as a condition of parking it.
- 4—Establishment of a rule to the effect that all parking spaces must be fenced to prevent use of streets and sidewalks for parking of overflow.

Woman Court Clerks May Get Jobs Back

Proposals to permit reinstatement of Mrs. Katherine I. Lally and Mary T. Kenally as clerks of Suffolk Superior Civil Court were headed for the House today following favorable action by the legislative committee on public service.

The women were discharged in 1938 by the then court clerk, John Patrick Connolly. Mrs. Lally had 28 years of service. If passed by the Legislature, the question of their reinstatement will have to be decided by Mayor Tobin and the Boston City Council.

Mrs. Snow, Editor, Hub Speaker

Mrs. Carmel Snow, editor-in-chief of Harper's Bazaar and a nationally known fashion expert, will speak on the present trends in fashion and forthcoming modes at the first spring meeting of the Fashion Group of Boston at the Hotel Vendome today.

It is Mrs. Snow's opinion that the present trend is for women to dress more as "just women" rather than as glamour girls or career women, and she is expected to discuss this trend with the Fashion Group members.

The group is composed largely of women executives in the fields of advertising, merchandising, fashion designing and education. Mrs. Snow, who has had long experience from her work on fashion magazines and as a buyer in the capitals of Europe, will have as her subject, "Fashions for Spring and Summer."

Every five years, Mrs. Snow declares, fashions change sharply, and she will analyze the cause of these changes and predict the coming styles.

The meeting will be open to the public and there will be an honor table composed of presidents of Boston retail stores. Among those at the head table will be Miss Lillian Perckell, regional director of the Fashion Group and stylist at R. H. White's; Fredrick Drake publisher and vice-president of Harper's Bazaar; Robert Drake, New England manager; Miss Muriel Cox, program chairman of the Fashion Group, and Miss Edesae Dahlgren, exercise and personnel director of Elizabeth Arden's, Newbury st.

Governor Acts To Keep Gaskill

Withdrawal of his resignation today revealed the surprise request of Ralph H. Gaskill, of Danvers, that he be relieved of his duties as a member of the State Milk Control Board.

The news became known when it was announced at the State House that Gov. Saltonstall had asked Gaskill to reconsider his recent resignation.

No reason was advanced for Gaskill's action in resigning the post to which Gov. Saltonstall appointed him in August, 1938. The news was guarded so closely that many of Gaskill's intimate on the board did not know of his action.

Information as to whether or not he will serve out his full term of appointment or simply until the Governor selects a successor to the post was not available.

Maine Woman Doctor's Slaying Baffles Police

lice were inclined to name the mysterious, unshaven stranger as the slayer, detectives were puzzled at an open box of narcotics found in plain sight in the husband's first floor office.

There also was a hypodermic needle lying in a metal basin beside the woman's body in the cellar.

If an assailant with a craving for drugs had committed the murder, investigators said it was a peculiar feature he did not carry away the narcotics.

HEARD DOG BARKING

Dr. Joss said last night was the housekeeper's night off. She was the only other occupant of the house.

After turning away the shabbily dressed visitor, Dr. Joss said he went down town. He placed his return at about 9 p. m.

As he approached the house, he said, he heard his collie dog barking. This he said was unusual. When he entered the house he found his office in disorder, blood on the floor.

A blood trail led through the laboratory at the office rear, across a hallway, through the dining room to the kitchen and then to the cellar door and stairs.

In a small area at the foot of the stairs where his unconscious wife lay, there were blood spatters on the wall.

Police theorized that the woman was attacked in the office and then dragged through the house and thrown or dragged down the cellar stairs.

Her knees were badly skinned, apparently from being dragged along the floor.

MAY HAVE BEEN PLANT

Why the hypodermic needle was in the basin beside the body the investigators could not determine. They said it might have been planted by the slayer to confuse police.

The hunt for the man described by the husband-doctor was launched immediately by police, but they said there were more than a few roughly clad and unshaven men transients who might be in this general area.

Deputy Sheriff Nathaniel Gilpatrick, who is also a rural mail carrier, said he saw such a stranger on the outskirts of Richmond yesterday, some hours before Dr. Joss reported him as calling at his home.

Police and volunteers blocked roads, halted automobiles and searched empty houses, barns and deserted summer camps.

Also they kept a watch on drug stores and doctors' offices on the chance the man might try again to obtain narcotics.

Today there came a report to Sheriff Charles Messenger from George Sherborne that he had seen a man run from behind a stone crusher, near the Sherborne home, at about 5:15 a. m. and jump aboard a northbound Maine Central train.

The elderly Sherborne said he was unaware at the time that Dr. Joss had been slain and "did not pay much attention" to the freight jumper.

The victim was a graduate of Peabody College and Vanderbilt University, in Nashville, Tenn., and interned at Bellevue Hospital, New York.

Afterward she was assistant house physician at Willard Parker Hospital for Contagious Diseases and Grassland Tuberculosis Hospital, both at Valhalla, N. Y. She practiced under the name of Dr. Harris.

She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harris of Birmingham, and had two brothers, Earl and Tolley Harris, both of Birmingham, as well as two sisters, Mrs. Lillian McKinnon of Birmingham and Mrs. Rosale Wright of Godsean, Ala.

Nazis Calling All Dogs For War Duty In Newest Draft

WASHINGTON, March 23 (AP)—The newest military wrinkle in Germany seems to be selective service for dogs.

Commerce Department officials said today German newspapers were carrying a notice to all dog owners to "register their dogs for military service," under penalty of fine and imprisonment.

It is common in Europe to use dogs for carrying articles and pulling small carts, especially in rough terrain.

Connelly on charges of breaking and entering in the night and larceny of $192 worth of suitcases, canned ham, shoes and hammers.

The pair were charged with having broken into a Brighton transportation company office last night and looted it. They were arrested when they were stopped for driving the wrong way up a one-way street.

NEW STRIKES BEGIN AS OLD WALKOUTS END

for settlement of the strike at Bethlehem.
Hundreds of the men walked quietly through the gates after the ERP, which has been ordered abolished by the National Labor Relations Board on the ground that it was a company-dominated union, placed ballot boxes in the mills. The election was called to name 60 bargaining representatives for the ERP, which has appealed the NLRB order.

There was no formal strike call, but SWOC previously had ordered the men to leave their posts "the minute the ballot boxes appear."

Four-Day Bethlehem Plant Strike Ended

BETHLEHEM, Pa., March 28 (AP)—A four-day strike at the huge parent plant of Bethlehem Steel ended today and the union, giving unanimous assent to terms on which negotiators previously had agreed, announced workers would return to their jobs as fast as they can.

Settlement was announced by company and CIO Steel Workers organizing committee representatives at 3:30 a. m.

The SWOC called the strike at 5:30 p. m. Monday following a threat of a walkout should the employees' representative plan proceed with a scheduled election of officers and bargaining agents.

In Philadelphia, Carl Beising, an official of the Philadelphia Industrial Union Council, CIO, announced the CIO may ask the Pennsylvania Legislature to initiate impeachment proceedings against Gov. Arthur H. James because state troops were sent in here Tuesday night.

Destruction of the ERP, originally included in union conditions for strike settlement, was not officially provided in today's four-point agreement.

John V. Riffe, assistant SWOC director, announced "there will be no more ERP elections in the plant" until there is a decision on a court appeal by the company from a National Labor Relations Board order directing it to disestablish the ERP.

Riffe told the mass meeting: "This is the first agreement ever obtained with Bethlehem Steel."

Allis-Chalmers Plant Strikers Return to Work

MILWAUKEE, March 28 (AP)—The Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co., closed by a CIO strike since Jan. 22, reopened today in compliance with the government's demand and announced approximately one-third of the normal day shift of production men reported for work.

Striking members of the United Automobile Workers Union made no effort to stop those who entered the plant. Many were jeered, however, and union cameramen photographed them.

The company said 1962 production men had entered the plant by 9 a. m. Harold Christoffel, union president, said union clockers at the several gates said there were only 46.

The union reiterated its warning that those who returned before the union voted its sanction would lose their jobs when the strike ends.

Max W. Babb, company president, wired Secretary of Navy Knox and William S. Knudsen, OPM director, that the factory had reopened.

Babb said the employees were being reassured that they need not worry over union threats that those who returned would lose their jobs and expressed the opinion that when the workers understood this "all but a small group" would go back to work.

Strike Near in Three Bethlehem Shipyards

HOBOKEN, N. J., March 28 (AP)—Describing a conference with company officials today as futile, the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America (CIO) announced it would go ahead tonight with a strike vote involving three Bethlehem Steel Co. shipyards in New York's harbor.

The company invited our representatives to a conference this morning," said Philip H. Van Gelder, international secretary-treasurer of the union. "Our committee went in. The company had nothing to offer and they came out again. The situation is unchanged."

CIO Threatens New Buffalo Plant Strike

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 28 (AP)—The CIO Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, which last month conducted a two-day strike against the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s suburban Lackawanna plant, threatens to strike again.

A mass meeting of 3000 members last night adopted unanimously a resolution authorizing international union leaders to call another strike "at their discretion."

The resolution charged the management with "failure to live up to the spirit of parts of the government's proposed strike settlement of Feb. 28."

850 Cincinnati AFL Steel Workers to Quit

CINCINNATI, March 28 (AP)—An unofficially estimated 850 AFL steel workers in 18 Greater Cincinnati plants either went on strike or were reported considering a walkout today. They are members of Local No. 522, International Association of Iron, Bridge and Steel Workers.

Issues were reported to include a new contract involving a pay increase of 10 cents hourly, seniority rights and vacations of one week.

RICHMOND, Ind., March 28 (AP)—Disorders which marked the reopening of the strike-closed International Harvester Co. plant here today led to a call for a grand jury investigation.

Judge C. H. Heisey, summoned a grand jury for a session Monday to make an inquiry into yesterday's skirmish at the plant gates.

Two persons, a policeman and a picket, were injured severely and many others lost blood as clubs and sticks found their mark.

DETROIT, March 28 (INS)—The 18-day-old strike of 1700 members of the UAW-CIO at the Midland Steel Co., which forced the Lincoln Motor Co. to shut down making 3000 additional workers idle, has been settled, Leo Lamotte, UAW-CIO regional director, announced today.

Formal details of the settlement will be announced later.

HUB DEFENSE STRIKE ENDS—Winning CIO union recognition, pay raises and vacations with pay, workers at the Walworth Mfg. Co., South Boston, return to work today after four-day strike which halted manufacture of valves and pipe fittings for the Navy.

Dykstra Board Acts on Strikes

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—The defense mediation board appealed today to companies and unions involved in cases pending before it to agree at once to resume production and continue operations while negotiations proceed.

W. H. Davis, vice-chairman of the board, said hearings would be held on three of the cases tomorrow and a hearing on the International Harvester Co. case Monday.

Panels of three members each were assigned to handle the cases of the Vanadium Corp., the Cornell-Dubilier Condenser Corp., and the Universal-Cyclops Steel Co. A five-member panel, headed by Chairman C. A. Dykstra, will consider the Harvester case.

In telegrams sent to the unions and companies in the Cyclops and Condenser cases Davis asked that they attend the meetings here tomorrow unless the disputes were adjusted before that time.

Asked at a press conference whether that meant he had hopes for settlement of the two strikes today, he replied in the affirmative.

Wage Boost for 900 Wool Mill Workers

NORTH ADAMS, March 28.—Notices were posted in three western Massachusetts mills today announcing wage increases for 900 woolen workers, effective May 17.

The "upward revision" will affect 490 employees of the Street Hewart mill, Clarksburg, and 200 each in the Norad and Blacinnis mills at North Adams. The exact amount of increase was not reported.

700 Strikers Back On So. Boston Job

After what is said to have been a compromise settlement in a gesture of patriotism, 700 striking employees of the Walworth Manufacturing Co., in South Boston, returned to work today.

Settlement in the four-day strike was reached after the employees at a mass meeting in the South Boston municipal building agreed to a compromise contract.

Demands for a general 15 per cent increase were not met but the company yielded a yearly week's vacation with pay.

W. B. Holten, Jr., president of the Walworth Co., issued the following statement:

"The contract provides, among other things, for recognition of the union as bargaining agent of the company's production employees and wage increases satisfactory to the employees, the union and the company."

"Important production for national defense purposes can now go forward."

Beginners will be increased from 45 to 50 cents an hour under the plan, which the mass meeting accepted by a vote of over 600 to 25. Workers with the company four months were increased to 52½ cents an hour and those of six months experience to 55 cents an hour. All had asked for a flat rate of 62½ cents an hour.

In the State Legislature yesterday, Senator George W. Stanton, Democrat of Fitchburg, filed a bill to prevent strikes, or lockouts in plants working on national defense contracts. It provides for a 60 day "cooling off" period after notice is filed with the state board of conciliation and arbitration.

Mass Might of Nation as Nazis Threaten

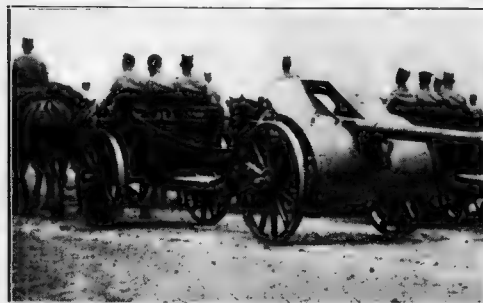

Where 3 Meet

Bordered on three fronts by Axis-alliance countries, Yugoslavia masses its armed power in the face of Nazi threats to invade if boy King Peter rejects recently signed Axis pact. Section above may be battlefield in the very near future.

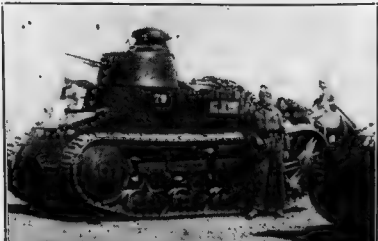

Ready for Battle—Pictured during recent maneuvers, these Yugoslav machine-gunners gave little thought to the fact that their actions might be the forerunner of grim reality in the present crisis. Today they're prepared to fight ... if Nazis invade.

Guns Move

Rolling to Yugoslav border stations today were such guns as this ... keyed to blast any attempted Nazi invasion, indication that Hitler may strike is the shift of the Nazi army in Bulgaria to the Yugoslav border.

To Fight?—Speeding to battle stations today was Yugoslavia's army of 1,200,000 ... ready to fight at the command of their boy king. Here's an infantry regiment, well trained ... their equipment modern.

Tanks Roll—Yugoslavia has added many modern tanks to her Army in the past few years, one of which is shown here during maneuvers.

HE WHO RULES YUGOSLAVIA

Recent Pictures of Boy King Who Seized Control of Country

Key Figures in Revolt—Pictured at unveiling of monument to Peter's father, assassinated King Alexander, are (l. to r.) King Peter II, who assumed throne; ousted Prince Regent Paul, Prince Tomislav, Peter's brother; Alexander, Paul's son, and Princess Olga.

In Uniform—Yugoslavia's boy king is pictured in his Sokol (Slavic gymnastic society) uniform. The Sokol joined other patriotic groups in protesting Prince Paul's Axis pact.

Old and New

Hitherto unpublished, photo shows King Peter and ousted Prince Regent Paul (right), leader of the overthrown regency, as they inspected the royal guard of honor in Belgrade recently.

Backed by Army—Always a favorite with the Army, King Peter (left) is shown with his cousin, Prince Alexander and son, Peter Kasia during recent inspection tour.

HARVARD LAW SCHOOL'S Professor James A. McLaughlin is quoted in the news as telling a Town Hall Meeting audience that Eire is imperialistic and out to get some counties which do not belong to her.

Where does the professor get his information?

He certainly does not get it from the news from Europe.

Everything that we have read indicates that the Irish people are minding their own business and doing their level best to avoid involvement in the current war.

Perhaps the professor's talents would be more profitably employed if he undertook to enlighten audiences concerning the Irish people's contributions to American peace and freedom.

He might, as a good beginning, point out that at least seven of the signers of our Constitution were Irishmen—five born in Ireland and two in America.

Those born in Ireland were Thomas Fitzsimmons, Pierce Butler, George Read, James McHenry and John Rutland.

Born in America of Irish parents were Daniel Carroll and William Few.

The professor might also mention that eight Irishmen signed the American Declaration of Independence.

These were Charles Carroll, Matthew Thornton, George Taylor, George Read, Thomas McKean, Thomas Nelson, Edward Rutledge and Thomas Lynch.

If he wished to continue giving information, the professor might add that an Irishman was the first under the Stars and Stripes to capture a British ship of war and that another Irishman took two million dollars' worth of sea prizes from the British Navy to assist this country in gaining its freedom.

IT IS REFRESHING to find a man with courage enough to stand up and say what he thinks.

It is particularly refreshing to find such a man in Boston, where fear of saying the wrong thing silences too many tongues and keeps too many bright ideas locked in otherwise brilliant heads.

The hero we have in mind is Former Mayor Fitzgerald, who proposes as a new slogan for Boston:

"NO DEAD HANDS SHALL HOLD BACK LIVING MEN!"

Explaining the need of such an invigorating motto, Mr. Fitzgerald says:

"We have Boston men, graduates of the Institute of Technology who are largely responsible for the Pratt and Whitney Works at Hartford, Ct., which has more than five hundred million dollars in contracts; the Bath Iron Works at Bath, Me., and the shipbuilding yard at Portland, Me., both of which have millions in shipbuilding contracts and employ thousands of men, while we do not get a look-in, except at Fore River.

"Why are these and other Technology men not working for Boston?"

"Is it any wonder that Boston is being advertised as slipping in shipping all over the world?"

That is food for thought. In fact, it is a whole banquet of serious contemplation.

We have the best sites for shipbuilding on the entire Atlantic Coast.

We have tens of thousands of acres of unused floor space and could, if we tried, get an impressive slice of the $11,000,000,000 in defense orders.

We should, therefore, stop worshipping the era of horse-cars, parlor organs and buttoned shoes and attune our mental processes to the lively Twentieth Century, its requirements and demands.

Maybe then Boston could obtain her rightful share of the nation's business and prosperity.

YANKEE RESENTMENT is rising as a result of Administration efforts to revive the long since discredited St. Lawrence Seaway.

Meeting in New Haven, Ct., the New England Shippers' Advisory Board went on record a few days ago as saying:

"There is no necessity for the transportation that would be provided for only about seven months each year.

"The money, material, man power and machinery that would be required for the consummation of the waterway should be conserved for direct use in the essential national defense program."

It is time the whole nation faced facts in this Seaway matter. Here they are:

The project cannot possibly be of the slightest use either to Canada or the United States in any crisis this year or next year or the year after that.

If Canada and the United States require more power for defense work, they can get it much more quickly either at Niagara Falls or by building steam electric plants.

Instead of promoting defense, the St. Lawrence plan threatens to block it by diverting an army of men, colossal amounts of material and whole trains of railway cars to the river area at a time when there is a crying need for planes, tanks, guns and ships.

On The Side

I HAVE several times expressed a belief our feminine friends were becoming somewhat weary of the constant recurrence of "How to Get a Man" and "How to Hold a Man" articles. And "Are You a Good Date?" and "Does That Interesting Man Ask You Out for the Second Time?" articles. Also "How to Keep a Husband Happy" articles. That there may be something in the aforementioned supposition is indicated by a communication received from a young matron of Manhattan: "Every time I see one of those 'How to Keep a Husband Happy' articles I feel like screaming: 'You're telling me! I know how to keep my husband happy. What I would like to know is how to keep him guessing. He is too sure of me!'"

ASIDES: Dorothy Walworth, going in for statistics, states: "Ninety women out of every hundred have at some time or other loved a man who stopped loving them." No wonder torch songs are so popular. . . Note a woman won a prize for her "apple and bacon muffins" made from an old Pennsylvania Dutch recipe. There are Southern cooking restaurants and New England cooking restaurants. Why is it nobody has ever started a Pennsylvania Dutch cooking restaurant? That Pennsylvania Dutch food is really something. . . "Using the word love in a film title is disastrous to box-office receipts," says a contemporary. I don't believe it. "Arise, My Love," did all right. So did "Love," starring Gilbert and Garbo. And how about "Love Me Tonight" with Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald?

CLAUDETTE COLBERT IN "ARISE, MY LOVE"

QUERIES: Q—Remember Max's Busy Bee on St. Ann st., Manhattan? A—Yes, sir. When an office boy I lunched at Max's daily on a hot dog and a glass of lemonade. Q—From what song is the line: "Ain't it funny when you ask for money, all you get is sympathy." A—This is from a parody on "Sympathy" sung by Trentini in "The Firefly." Q—In what year did Nostradamus predict the current European war would end? A—Nostradamus, who predicted the current war in Europe and also that the Germans would take France and have much early success, prophesied the war would be over in 1944 A. D. And that Hitler, despite his early triumphs, would end locked up in an iron cage.

HOLLYWOOD talent scouts have overlooked a bet in not signing up "Sharkey," the talented trained seal that was such a bit in the musical show "Higher and Higher." Consider what Asta, the wire-haired pup, did for the "Thin Man" series. And then consider the possibilities for laughs in a man and wife comedy in which the couple, instead of having a dog for a pet, had a trained seal.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

MY DAY

VALDOSTA, GA., Thursday—The sun has not been very kind to us. Yesterday, Miss Thompson and I walked around Middleton Gardens in the early morning bemoaning the fact that no sunlight danced upon the water, or played through the leaves of the trees. However, nothing can really spoil the beauty of those gardens and we enjoyed our walk and came back to thank Mrs. Smith, who had invited us into her house.

I always think that it must seem very odd to have strangers wandering around your garden. But she told us that though they marked with care "private residence" outside the house, people come in if they leave the doors unlocked. One morning the mail heard some people in the dining room and, on coming in, found them examining some silver.

Of course, in Europe certain houses with wonderful collections of paintings, prints and furniture were open to the public at certain times, but never do I remember the families' living quarters open while they were at home.

WHEN one owns works of art, there is an obligation to let the public see them. But it seems to me, that the public has a certain obligation in return to respect the privacy of the owners.

Mrs. Huntington drove with us well on the road to Savannah, and then we pulled up under some trees and ate a delicious picnic lunch. She feels as I do—that food eaten out of doors always has a better flavor. I always rejoice when the time comes when we can have breakfast and lunch on the porch at the White House.

We practically always eat on the porch of my cottage at Hyde Park. The President likes to go even one step farther and has the table put right out on the lawn. It may be a trifle disconcerting if it begins to rain or, if toward evening, the mosquitoes begin to bite.

From Savannah to Valdosta, Ga.

went through the turpentine country. I cannot help feeling that the big slashes made in the trees must be harmful to them, but they tell me that the same trees are used for a number of years. We drove through much swamp land. I find this country rather gloomy, but perhaps that is due to the fact that the sun has stayed away from us.

We were late in arriving yesterday.

day, but with true Southern hospitality nobody hurried us. Miss Thompson and I dined with the girls at the college.

They sang some Stephen Foster songs, which I much enjoyed. After dinner boys and girls from a nearby colored training school, led by a young woman who sang for the President once at Warm Springs, came in and sang some spirituals for us.

PRINCE OBOLENSKY STUDIES GUNS

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, March 28—Prince Serge Obolensky is taking lessons in gunnery and the American manual of arms three times a week, preparing to accept a commission . . . Stock Exchange officials are talking of Leon Henderson as successor to William McC. Martin, president of the Stock Exchange. Henderson, the New Deal economist, also has two other offers—one for $16,000 a year for half his time as a private economic consultant . . . Dorothy Parker and Alan Campbell have been signed by Warner Bros. to adapt "Skeffington" for the screen . . . Gary Cooper, Barbara Stanwyck, Edward Arnold and Jimmy Gleason are reshooting a new ending for "Meet John Doe." It will be sent to the film exchanges to be substituted for the current ending . . . Ludwig Bemelmans is dramatizing his Hotel Splendide series, which have been appearing in the New Yorker. Gilbert Miller may produce it.

NAME: Arthur Pollack, drama critic for the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, attacked the N. Y. columnists' last Sunday and questioned their accuracy. In his article, Pollack cited the fact that one of us has written many stories about Henry Bernstein, the French dramatist—and that half the time the first name had been spelled "Henri" instead of the correct way, "Henry" . . . On the same day, the drama section of the Sunday Times published a Bernstein article about Sam Behrman. The by-line on that article read "By Henri Bernstein."

DANCE: In last Sunday's Herald Tribune, Walter Terry's article, "Broadway Dance," reported: "As you know, Gertrude Lawrence turns on the works in 'Lady in the Dark' and as you also know she is star stuff no matter what she does. Her dancing though far from complex, is tremendously effective, and even in the straight dramatic episodes the movements of her body are those of a dancer who knows how to reflect character and mood in terms of gesture and motion . . . and to prove her versatility further, she manages to look like and move like Ruth St. Denis in the first act finale called 'The Woman at the Altar.'" . . . This is no reflection upon Miss Lawrence's talents, but that dance in the first act finale is done by her double, to give Gertrude a chance to change her clothes. She's Virginia Peine.

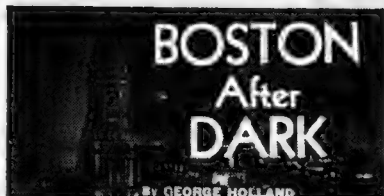

SONG: Irving Caesar, the song writer, went to the Casino Russe and heard Nina Tarasova sing there. He extended his compliments and offered to write special material for her. "But the songs I now sing," Miss Tarasova explained, "were written for me by Fedor Chaliapin. His accompanist now plays the piano for me." . . . "Chaliapin, Chaliapin—that stuff's corny," Caesar assured her. "I'll send you a song with some schmaltz in it."

TOIL: Sidney Buchman, the $2500-a-week scenarist, left his office at 4:55. His employer phoned him and belittled: "What do you mean—leaving the studio so early? You know that I want all writers to stay around until 5 o'clock. Get in at 9 sharp tomorrow morning so we can all meet and lick this story." . . . At 9 a. m. Buchman attended the story conference. "A'know, boss," he started, "I had the complete solution to this story." His employer beamed: "I knew you'd come through." . . . Doubt flickered across the writer's face. "But I got the idea while shaving, boss," he confessed, "and since I wasn't supposed to be working until 9 a. m. I threw it aside and forgot it."

SWANK: Rogers' Corner, the 6th Ave. restaurant formerly occupied by Jack Dempsey's, invited the Green-which Council of Women to convene in the Rhumba Room there . . . The blue-blooded Mrs. Stanley P. Woodward, president of the council, made this clear and direct reply: "Dear Sir: Replying to your favor of March 13, our executives would be averse to announcing a dinner in a Rhumba Room. We have ascertained that the very vulgar rhumba dance is not Spanish, but a dance of the Negroes of South America and one which all decent South and Central Americans condemn. Yours very truly—Mrs. Stanley P. Woodward."

GERTRUDE LAWRENCE

SOMEBODY HAS STOLEN A match on Jimmy Roosevelt . . . Already in operation, and with the nickels clinking merrily through its coin-box attachment, a "soundies" machine is proving an overnight sensation at the Circle Lounge, a smart cocktail lounge and restaurant near the Beacon st. reservoir.

IT IS FULLY A YEAR since Capt. Roosevelt (of the Marines) announced that he was interested in developing and marketing a motion-picture reproduction machine, valued for sound . . . In January, a preview of the Roosevelt machine was held in Boston.

BUT THE SMOOTH-LOOKING contraption on display at the Circle Lounge is not Jimmy's machine . . . Its trade mark is "phon-o-vision," but the sole essential difference between this device and the one sponsored by Jimmy is that "phon-o-vision" affords three minutes of entertainment for a nickel . . . "Sonovision," the trademark of the Roosevelt "box," calls for the deposit of a dime.

THE MACHINE ITSELF is truly a remarkable gadget . . . At the top of the cabinet is a silver screen, a miniature of the ordinary movie screen . . . It is not too "miniature," however . . . The "hepcats" of Boston and the whole cult of jive may distinguish readily their favorite music maestros (and their boys) in action.

THE PHOTOGRAPHY OF SUCH BANDS as those of Mark Warnow, Clyde Lucas, Henry Busse, Orrin Tucker and Richard Himmer shines out clear and in perfect focus . . . And the tone of the music is comparable to that of the most modern "juke" boxes.

VERY LITTLE IMPROVEMENT would seem necessary to make these new "soundies" a full-fledged industry . . . The musical pictures have been produced carefully, and when the producers achieve a few more closeups—instead of long-range shots—the effect will be even better.

HERE IS A HINT OF THE POPULARITY of this particular brand of "soundies" . . . A crew of two men set up headquarters in a Springfield hotel March 15, and with only one machine as a demonstrator, orders for 140 cabinets were taken in that territory alone . . . As the machines sell for $590, the result—by multiplication—is quite startling.

THE MACHINE AT THE CIRCLE LOUNGE flashes a warning that "this machine is for purposes of demonstration only" . . . But the man in charge, a New Yorker named Stirratt, said that there will be no difficulty about delivering in volume . . . Orders are being taken for delivery in May.

THE QUESTION LOGICALLY arises: "What happened to Jimmy Roosevelt and his 'soundies'?" . . . The Roosevelt enterprise, conducted in collaboration with the midwest manufacturer who makes slot machines, certainly had a head start, both in national publicity and sales-opportunity.

THE "PHON-O-VISION" MACHINE labors under one handicap . . . "Soundies" is a somewhat natural abbreviation for the Roosevelt trade name . . . A diminutive

FANNIE BRICE

Star Considers Broadway Comeback

tive contraction of "phon-o-vision" would not result so happily . . . You just can't call a product "phonies" . . . Certainly, one would not be justified in any such familiarity with the device now working at the Brookline oasis.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: A season that brought back both Ed Wynn and Al Jolson was notable enough, and the coming fall has a chance of repeating . . . Eddie Cantor is determined to make a Broadway comeback, and now come reports from Hollywood that Fannie Brice, if she gets an interesting script, will face a paying audience again (in person) . . . The late Dave Friedman wrote much of Fannie's material . . . And her ex-husband, Billy Rose, helped out . . . The unavailability of both has deterred Miss Brice from making an earlier return to Broadway, we hear.

GOLDWYN, DISNEY JOIN FORCES

By Louella O. Parsons

Sam Goldwyn

HOLLYWOOD, March 28—You would expect Sam Goldwyn to do something sensational now that he is in pitching again as a producer. It's good to hear Sam has an idea that will delight little and big children all over the world. He has joined forces with Walt Disney to produce "The Life and Stories of Hans Christian Andersen." There will be a combination of life and cartoon actors. Sam will produce the live part of the picture and Walt will control the cartoon end.

Sam said for three years he has wanted to make a picture of Hans Christian Andersen and to be able to make it in conjunction with Walt, the wizard of all picture movies, is more than he dared hope. Disney touched lightly on the famed fairy tale writer in one of his cartoons—but in the movie with Goldwyn he will use the new technique that is so astonishing in "Fantasia," and he has even improved it. I want a reserved seat for the opening. Len Spitz arranged the deal.

MADELINE CARROLL

will be paid $250,000, which he is turning over to the British war relief.

BOB HOPE and Madeleine Carroll are the unusual team Buddy de Sylva is co-starring in "The Lady in Pursuit"—and Bob and Madeleine are really a combination. The story, by Kenneth Earl and Curtis Kenyon, is about a happy-go-lucky globe-trotting adventurer who runs along a lady scientist who decides he's her perfect eugenic mate. She won't take "no" for an answer, even when she finds out he's engaged.

ROSE DAVIES, attractive sister of the popular Marion Davies, at last has a dream come true. Her unnamed symphony will be played at the U. C. L. A. in the main hall April 6 at 3 o'clock. Ever since Rose was a child she longed to create something of her own. First she studied art; then she was given a present of a piano and a violin by her grandfather and she took up her music. Her symphony has been the work of several years. Thomas Satterfield has prepared the orchestral score. Music lovers say the symphony is beautiful.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: It's a boy for the Leland Heywards (Margaret Sullivan to you). Leland said he didn't care whether it was a boy or a girl but he was wearing a smile that wouldn't come off when William Leland Heyward put in an appearance at dawn; Oren Haglund, Frisella Lane's ex. is in the Army now. He left yesterday for training; David Selznick received a letter from Vivien Leigh saying she had joined the British Ambulance Corp.—and pleased that Laurence Olivier has joined the RAF; Carole Landis' new bracelet with the 150 carat topaz dazzling the 20th natives—but she won't say which boy friend gave it to her; Joan Blondell and Dick Powell heading home from New York; the big attraction for Eddie Norris at Earl Carroll's is Dorothy Shuener; George Sanders' brother, Tom Conway, made a test with Jeanette MacDonald for "Smilin' Thru" today. He's a dead ringer for Ronald Colman; Cesar Romero and Frances Robinson a new combination at the Mocambo; Phil Reed, who gets around, buying June Duprez' lunch at the Hollywood Tropics; Zasu Pitts and Patky Kelly leaving on a personal appearance tour together; Rudy Vallee wants Susan Hayward's phone number when she gets back from New York.

LOUELLA PARSONS, famed internationally-circulated Hearst motion picture columnist, goes on the air every Friday, starting with a Hollywood premiere of her show, tonight. She will be heard locally over Station WEEI every Friday between 10 and 10:30 p. m.

NEWARK, N. J., March 22 (AP)—The Essex County grand jury indicted Charles (The Bug) Workman, held at Brooklyn, N. Y., in the investigation of Murder, Inc., for the murder of Arthur (Dutch Schultz) Flegenheimer, pro-

GANGSTER INDICTED AS SLAYER OF DUTCH SCHULTZ hiltion era beer baron, in a New-ari tavern on Oct. 23, 1935.
Prosecutor William A. Wachenfell said he would move immediately to extradite Workman from Brooklyn, where he has been held, under $75,000 bail for a year as a material witness in the Murder, Inc., investigation. He added he hoped to bring Workman to trial as soon as possible.
The indictment charged that Workman "wittingly, maliciously and with malice aforethought, murdered the beer baron."

Three of Schultz's companions,
Abe Frank, Otto Berman and Ber-wounded fatally as they sat in the tavern drinking beer, by killers who stormed into the tavern and pumped bullets into them.

'Spring Lilac' For You

By AIRLINE GOULD
IT'S THE BIGGEST flower fashion in years . . . this sudden devotion to sprays of lilacs . . . whole hats are made of them, white or traditional lilac tint . . . and the high style shade of the season is a lilac-purple in variations from a pale to a deep, red-violet tint.

Just a natural then . . . is the debut of a new fragrance . . . "Spring Lilac" . . . haunting, fresh . . . in a perfume . . . a matching toilet water, cologne, dusting powder and talcum.

You'll adore the exquisiteness of it . . . the way it brings you the heady bouquet of old-fashioned lilac gardens. It's light, young . . . a reproduction of the fragrance so singularly true that you'll notice a heads-up effect on people who sniff it wonderingly . . . wondering how a lilac bush could bloom in the town's smart cocktail spot or night club!

When you try it you'll realize why the flower has always been called the "first love of spring" . . . and why it was destined to be your expression of what spring-time done to you . . . the new exhilaration and gayety it's given you.

Equally exciting is the amazing smallness of your investment in getting these new lilac fragrances . . . you may have perfume for as little as 50 cents . . . and the toilet or cologne at a dollar . . . dusting powder the same, talcum 50 cents!

SWEETEST flower of spring . . . and undoubtedly the sweetest perfume of the year . . . slated to be a sensation is the new group of lilac fragrances which Carol Ames describes today . . . made by a famous French firm and presented in this, the season when lilacs reign supreme as a fashion inspiration.

Good Manners

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:

My sister was married secretly about a year ago, but the marriage was no longer a secret after several weeks. Now she and her husband have rented a house, and will shortly move in, to start housekeeping.

1—Would it be proper to give her a housewarming, or are such parties given only when one moves into a new house?

She did not have a bridal shower, and I would like to plan a party or shower for her so that she will receive some gifts. If such a party is not the proper thing, could you suggest something else similar to this?

2—Are couples invited to a housewarming, or just girl friends? How many people should be invited? How would I word the invitations? Should the party be a surprise?

1—A housewarming is properly given "in honor of" any new home, whether the new home is in a new house or a one-room apartment.

A PRACTICAL REASON

It is doubtful taste, however, for a member of either family or a close relative, to plan to give any kind of party that suggests that the real reason for giving the party is that the guests are expected to bring gifts. And, as you say, the reason for your giving this housewarming is so that your sister "will receive some gifts."

This is, obviously, not an attractive reason for giving the party, even though, I grant you, it certainly is a practical reason! It would be pleasant for you to give the party, perhaps with the co-operation of a few of your and your sister's intimate friends, but please don't keep the gift-idea in your mind or don't emphasize it to anyone when you are planning the party. Plan the housewarming, but leave it completely to your guests' choice as to whether or not they bring gifts. Your invitations should most definitely not be an obvious "bid" for gifts.

HOUSE IN PERFECT ORDER

A housewarming is customarily given by the host and hostess of the new home, and perhaps your sister and her husband would like to give this party, with your helping in the arrangements. However, sometimes this party is a surprise, and, if you can plan this, this would be proper. Remember that this party is given to show off the house, and so you must arrange to have the house in perfect order.

Both men and women are usually invited to a housewarming, very often given on either Saturday or Sunday afternoon or in the evening. The number of guests invited depends on the size of the new home.

If the party is to be a surprise, perhaps the safest way of inviting the guests is by word of mouth or by telephone, or if this is not convenient, by notes of invitation warning about the "secret."

Wants Her Kin As Attendants

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:

I would like to have you tell me if it would be proper for me to have my oldest sister as my matron of honor. She has been married for several years and has a three-year-old daughter. Also I have a brother who has been married since last summer. Would it be proper for him to be invited to be one of the ushers?

N. Attendants, either of the bride or of the groom, may be unmarried or married. Very often over half of the wedding attendants are married relatives or friends of the bride and groom.

Of course you want to have your oldest sister as your matron of honor, and this is what you should do. If the groom wishes to have your married brother as one of his ushers, this is the proper thing for him to do.

Aunt Jenny says:

MY SUDS! HAVE YOU TRIED SWAN? IT'S THE FIRST REALLY NEW WHITE FLOATIN' SOAP SINCE THE GAY NINETIES

One of America's Best-Loved Homemakers

HELLO, FOLKS:

I swear to goodness I never saw a floatin' soap like this new Swan—for dishes or bath or silks or anythin'! It's better'n old-fashioned floatin' soaps 8 different ways, jest like they say.

For instance, it'll suds up lots quicker. It's harder to the touch. It lasts longer!

I want each an' every one of you to give this grand new floatin' soap a try. The Swan folks tell me if you don't think Swan's better you're to mail the wrapper to Swan, Cambridge, Mass., an' they'll send you double your money back. That's up till April 25, 1941.

Sincerely yours, JENNIFER F. WHEELER
(Aunt Jenny)

NEVER SAW SUCH SUDS IN ALL MY BORN DAYS!

Yessiree, even in water "hard as nails," Swan suds up two times quicker'n old-time floatin' soaps. I declare to goodness, I never touched creamier suds!

MY, HOW IT LASTS! SWAN SOAP IS SO MUCH FIRMER!

Seems like Swan lasts lots longer than my old-time floatin' soap. It's solid an' hard—made with far less moisture, they tell me. Gives you more real soap. An' it won't warp, either.

LAN'S SAKES! SWAN'S PURE AS IMPORTED CASTLES!

You couldn't ask for a purer soap than Swan. It's as pure and mild as imported "100% olive oil" castile. Try it once for the baby an' I'll bet it's your favorite.

SEE HOW NICE SWAN BREAKS INTO TWO LOVELY CAKES!

Here's another thing that will tickle you about Swan—the way it breaks nice 'n smooth into 2 elegant cakes. Swan smells fresher, too! Never turns rancid.

Buy Fish for Two Meals, Homemakers Urged

By MARTHA LEF

"Never buy fish for just one meal. It is more economical to buy three instead of your customary two pounds, for then you will have plenty for two meals by cooking in a different manner."

This advice to homemakers comes from fish cookery experts of the Fish and Wildlife Service, United States Department of the Interior, and is particularly applicable during the present Lenten season when extra fish meals must be planned for the "abstinence-from-meat" meals.

If extra fish is purchased, when a meal of boiled or steamed fish is planned, or when a fish-chowder is prepared, the unused portions may be flaked and stored in the refrigerator for use in a flaked fish dish.

FISH FLAKES ON TOAST

One of the simplest dishes of this character to prepare is plain creamed flakes, prepared in this manner. Place 6 tablespoons of melted butter into a saucepan and add 4 tablespoons of flour, stirring until smooth. Next, add 2 cups of milk and continue the stirring until the sauce thickens. At this point, add 2 pounds of flaked fish, with seasoning as desired, and stir until the flakes are thoroughly warm, but not boiling. Serve hot on toast. The next fish-flake recipe may sound like a different way of saying the same thing but really isn't. It requires 2½ cups of fish flakes.

FISH FLAKES IN CREAM

2½ cups fish flakes
1 cup cream, or a mixture of cream and fish stock
3 tbsp. chopped parsley
2 (bsp. grated onion, or any desired seasoning
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
4 tbsp. butter or cooking oil
Place the cream, or a mixture of cream and fish stock, into a bowl and add the chopped parsley, grated onion, or any desired seasoning, salt, pepper and finally the fish flakes. Over a slow fire, heat butter or cooking oil in a saucepan. When this is well heated, dump the contents of the bowl into the saucepan and permit them to become thoroughly heated and the seasonings blended. The hot creamed flakes can then be served on toast with baked potatoes. Here's another fish-flake dish called the "Quick-Meal," so-called not only because it is quickly prepared but also because it has the habit of vanishing quickly when placed before a hungry family.

QUICK-MEAL

2 cups milk
½ tsp. salt
1-3 tsp. pepper
2 (bsp. butter
2 cups coarsely crushed crackers

2 beaten eggs, optional

2 lbs. fish, flaked

First, heat the milk to which the salt, pepper and butter have been added. While this mixture is heating, stir in 2 cups of coarsely crushed crackers. If desired, 2 beaten eggs may be added to the wet cracker mixture and the mixture heated until the egg is cooked. At this point, add the fish flakes, obtained from 2 pounds of any fat fish of distinctive flavor, such as salmon, tuna, bluefish, mackerel, etc. Serve immediately.

FISH POTATO PUFF

2 cups flaked cooked fish
2 cups seasoned mashed potatoes
1 tsp. salt

1 tsp. lemon juice

Few drops tabasco sauce

2 (bsp. chopped celery

2 (bsp. chopped parsley

1 (bsp. minced green pepper

1 (bsp. minced onion

2 (bsp. butter

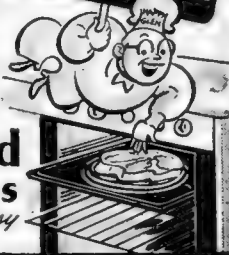

3 eggs, separated

Combine fish, potatoes, salt, lemon juice and tabasco. Saute celery, parsley, pepper and onion in butter until tender; add to fish mixture. Add well-beaten egg yolks and beat until very light; then fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and pile lightly in greased baking dish. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 30 to 40 minutes, or until set and lightly browned. Makes 6 servings.

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

TRY THIS on your personal Lie Detector and see how many lies it puts in your cherished conceits. It's from Sylvia Townsend Warner's little classic, "MR. FORTUNE'S MAGGOT," that unforgettable tale of the complacent parson who landed on a pagan isle—and how Nature made a monkey of him.

It was, fumed Mr. Fortune, most regrettable that pagans should be so completely gay, contented and friendly without any of the grimmer civilized virtues. Obviously, it was up to him to make them see the evil of their ways; beginning with Lueli, the beautiful bronze boy who became his adoring shadow from the day of his arrival.

So for many energetic months, Mr. Fortune labored over Lueli, taking great pride in his "convert's" improvement, until one dreadful day, discovering Lueli's hidden wicked plot, he realized that Lueli had not changed at all. He was still the happy heathen he had always been.

It was true, Mr. Fortune could make him desperately miserable by his peevish, cold, in the end, even make him seek death by taking away his "god." But, to the end, he had to be HIMSELF at heart, and not some false, distorted thing which would suit dear Mr. Fortune. So finally, Mr. Fortune himself went away for very love of the fact he had so nearly destroyed. But when he did, he caught a glimpse of what ailed him, and was, alas! humiliated, knocked for a loop.

"I had a poor, meager . . . god," at the end, I came here and "found Lueli," he marvels to himself. "I loved him because he was a surprise . . . So what did I do? I started interfering . . . I taught him to do this, and not to do the other. I checked him. I fidgeted over him . . . I could not spend a day without trying to alter him."

"HOW DREADFUL IT IS THAT . . . WE CAN NEVER LOVE ANYTHING WITHOUT MESSING IT ABOUT!"

And the wretched Mr. Fortune saw that the reason for all this nagging and fidgeting over those who came to love all this "messing about" arose not from love but from man's own will-to-power. We were never willing to let the Other follow be himself in his own good way and time, but must always be trying to make him over after our own pattern.

MR. FORTUNE destroyed young Lueli's pagan god and wiped out his laughter.

In this rarely humble moment I'm wondering—how many simple gods have I destroyed? How much song and laughter have I wiped away because I couldn't sing the same tune? Darn me and my meddling!

Family Has No Use for Him

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX.

My girl friend's family does not like me, so we planned to run off and get married and keep it a secret. But we've changed our minds and have decided to wait. We have been going together for two years.

I found out now that she has been cheating—going out with other boys. I've told her it would mean our separation, but she continues to accept dates from others. I'm undecided whether I should wait for her or give up the idea of marriage. She is 20 years old and I am 21.

Cheating is not a good foundation on which to build a happy marriage. Love, confidence and respect are all requisites for a life partnership. And do you mean by "cheating" something serious or just a little flitting with another boy? I find young people call both these things "cheating."

As you're both very young and the girl's family doesn't approve of you, it would be better not to consider marrying just yet.

POST-DEB LUCY POPE of Brookline and M. Bernard Fox of Marblehead, former national figure skating champion, comparing notes on the opera while sipping lemonade between the acts at the Metropolitan last night.

Chatty Notes of Society

Mrs. Irving Wright of Chestnut Hill and Mrs. William A. Parker are spending a few days at the St. Regis in New York.

Mrs. Gardner Fiske of Beacon st. has returned from a sojourn in Florida.

Mrs. Clifford Smith, who has been sojourning at the Hotel St. Regis in New York on her way home from a visit in the West, has returned to her apartment on Chestnut st.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Randolph Burke of Dover are enjoying an early spring visit at the Williamsburg Restoration in Virginia.

AT LAST the Metropolitan Opera is performing in a building which is in keeping with its old tradition of opulence and glamour . . . and Boston had to provide it . . .

For the last decade, despite all the pomp and wealth which surrounds the opera season, the Met has gone on the boards in run down and old fashioned buildings both in New York and Boston . . .

Last night, when the Met opened its Boston season in Beantown's Metropolitan Theater, there was no diamond horseshoe of boxes, for the theater was designed for movies . . . but neither were there any lame necks of people who had to lean out from either side of the horseshoe in order to see the stage . . .

Gowns, Furs and Flowers Are Elaborate

THERE WERE LARGE well kept marble lobbies in which to stroll between the acts, a beautiful red carpeted stairway, an elaborate champagne bar and supper room, and everything more in keeping with the formality associated with opera . . . Even opera lovers who come whether or not it is a social event, had a lot more room for there are a thousand more seats . . . and society editors and photographers had more room to work in the spacious foyer instead of being jammed into a tiny outside lobby . . .

Not since the days of the horse drawn carriage has Hollis st. seen such a procession of Boston gentry arriving in top hats, white ties and beautiful evening finery . . .

Diamond tiaras and long white kid gloves, for years considered appropriate accessories for opera-going, are definitely "out" if last evening's audience is any criterion . . . but gowns, furs and flowers were more elaborate than ever . . .

O'Days Attend

PASSING THROUGH a barrage of flash light shots, Mrs. John O'Day and her daughters, all in snowy ermine, were the center of attraction in the vast lobby and Mrs. James J. Phelan, with huge orchids on her long ermine cape, was, as usual, one of the best dressed of the huge opening night throng . . .

Mrs. Bartlett Harwood who always plans her return from Florida to coincide with the opera opening, sported a deep Hobe Sound tan down to here, and wore a lovely pastel blue gown with diamond circlelets on the shoulder straps . . . Another very tanned music lover was Mrs. Frederic Cameron Church who had a smoke between the acts with Sergeant Peter Chambers, resplendent in khaki and gold braid . . .

Mr. and Mrs. J. Burke Wilkinson attended in a family party with the Richard Thompsons and Harrison Proctor and were the first of a crowd of well wishers who greeted Dottie Preston and her fiancé, Charles Ware, whose engagement has just been announced . . . Vivacious Dottie, wearing plum taffeta with a lovely corsage of pink orchids, and her handsome blond bridegroom-to-be were constantly acknowledging best wishes between the acts . . .

Chiffon Gown

TITIAN-HAIRED ALICE HUNSAKER was escorted by Gordon Woodruff and wore a striking turquoise chiffon gown made with full bishop sleeves and bands of gold sequins adorning the shoulders . . . Lucy Pope, in the jauntiest ermine jacket of the evening, sipped lemonade and discussed the libretto of Figaro with M. Bernard Fox . . .

OPERA STARS EXCEL IN 'MARRIAGE OF FIGARO'; MET PROVES IDEAL SETTING.

Audience, Cast In Jubilation

By LEO GAFFNEY

The Metropolitan Opera in the Metropolitan Theater is all to the good.

The worriers had thought that New York's de luxe productions in a Boston movie palace might not be suitable, that the atmosphere and acoustics of the Opera House would be missed.

Some did miss the old stand, but there were no tears. You could see and hear well in any part of the house. Backstage the singers seemed elated and the stage manager danced a jig.

Good omens:
There was champagne at the bar downstairs. And that was good, too.

The choice of Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro," one of the most delicate of operas, was daring. But it proved in the hearing that the grandiose stuff to come will have all the boom it needs.

Written by the superb master of his day, long before music was subjected to the inflections that have since rendered it, for many, into something almost occult, the Mozart melodies run like clear brooks, singing all the way

This "simplified" opera form, so full of amiable airs and recitatives run off on the harpsichord, seems more precious now in the light of so much development.

Ezio Pinza, who is never better than when he is a dashing fellow, makes a magniloquent Figo, bouncing around in impish glee, his burly bass voice generally to be heard over all. Lucia Albanese was his too willing fiancée and accomplice—singing the famous soprano aria, "O Come, My Heart's Delight" with luminous distinction.

Rise Stevens, sumptuous mezzo-soprano, who is on her way to Hollywood, once again was seen as a lovely boy (Cherubino) almost stopping the show with the inexpressably lovely aria, "Voi Qui Sapete."

John Brownlee and Irene Jessner, as the Count and Countess, respectively, brought rich gifts to difficult singing assignments, and the distinguished basso-buffo, Salvatore Baccaloni more than lived up to expectations.

“The Marriage of Figaro” is almost a stranger in these parts. Not since Vladimir Rosing and his short-lived American Opera Company put it on some dozen years ago at the Old Hollis Street Theater has this choice bit of Mozartean splendor been seen in Boston.

To freshen up on the story, Figaro is the comic character created by Beaumarchais to express witty reguery. You meet him first in "The Barber of Seville."

He was a riot on the stage of the period, best expressing the absurdly intrigue that squirmed and writhed with serpentine deviousness in every elaborate household and political establishment throughout Europe in the doublet and hose era.

It was a brilliant and decadent society, affecting master and man alike. And it was a wise man that knew just who he was flirting with. "Figaro" dotes on the folly of flirting and is probably the best social satire of its time, in addition to being one of the two or three best grand operas prior to Wagner—which means that it ranks with the greatest classic music.

Figaro, the fellow, is a valet engaged to be married to Susanna, pretty member of the household. But the Count, flitting about like the human bee that he is, has other ideas. There follows such a mess of intrigue, such a complication of mistaken identities and Charley's Aunt masquerades that audiences long since have ceased to follow the details.

But the singers follow them, which generates such excitement so perfectly expressed by the music that the performance casts a pixilated spell—the same that inspired Lamb to call the opera the "Utopia of gallantry."

The dreamy unreality of everybody is further heightened by the prettified costumery and wonder-struck scenery.

It's all out "down under," naturally, and March of Time's latest release shows how it is being done in "Australia At War," now featured on South Station Theatre screen. Of particular interest to us is "Our Constitution," story of America's most vital document. "Popular Science" and an Elton Maxwell comedy, an Arizona travelogue, "Movie Magic," and the latest newsreels complete the two-and-a-half-hour program.

STRANGE things happened in Bagdad. Through hundreds of years, men gathered in the market places of that ancient town and listened to the tales of professional story tellers. Then somebody who could read and write collected these tales into many volumes and they became the Thousand and One—of the Arabian Nights.

These are full of marvelous things. Of fabulous birds called roc, large as elephants, of gigantic djinns, high as mountains but who could be imprisoned in a small bottle, of magic flying carpets with an air speed of a mile a minute and a cruising radius of a thousand miles. And there are lovers, princes in love with scullery maids, princesses in love with chimney sweeps.

But things as strange happen in New York.

There are no fabulous birds nor flying carpets but there are airplanes that can outfly both of them. There is a djinn that can outdunn any Arabian djinn that ever was and it can be confined in a space smaller than a pin-head. It is Electricity. And there are lovers still. There always will be lovers.

Sue Vestal thought of these things, not smugly or imaginatively but frantically to keep from facing some highly unpleasant facts that threatened her.

She was a shapely and more than pretty blonde in her middle twenties who had been on or about Broadway, for those eight years. As Al Babb or any of his Forty Thieves (all of whom were her patrons) would have said, she knew all the answers so well that she never had to ask questions any more.

But she was asking one tonight. She was asking herself, "Where can I get five thousand dollars to keep my night club alive?" And she was asking it in the night club itself as she sat at a table not far from the door and watched the business of the night begin. The answer to her question, of course, was "Nowhere," because five thousand dollars do not grow on trees and even if they did there were few trees in the vicinity of Sue's night club which was in the Fifties, far on the East Side.

A LOVELY WOMAN

She was a remarkable girl and maybe that was the reason remarkable things happened to her. When she came to New York from a small Pennsylvania town, at the age of 17, she was more beautiful even, than today. Her hair was tawny. Her eyes were blue. Her lips were sweet with love because, at that tender age, she had been a married woman. How would you say it? She was an annulled woman. She had eloped and married the town's richest boy. His horrified parents had come after him when he wired home for money and had taken immediate steps to wash the marriage up.

The Cast of Characters in "Let's Get Married"

SUE VESTAL, who elopes with JACK DUVAL, sees her husband taken from her by his rich parents and then comes to New York for life in a night club.

Let's Get Married

By Charles McGuirk

That was the only reason why Sue had come to New York at all. In the ordinary course of events, she would have stayed with Jack Duval, her 19-year-old husband, and let nature take its course.

In New York, she quickly learned that beautiful girls were a dime a dozen and untrained girls a liability. Eventually, she drifted into the only field in which she had a chance, show business, or rather night club business. She got a place as a show girl in the line of the Silver Slipper.

She moved up from a place in the line to a feature spot in which she moved sinuously across the floor in the glare of a spot light. This fixed her utmost artistic limit and she became famous and busy as a nude.

There were several places she could have gone from there, if she had been what Broadway calls normal. She could have had her own penthouse and her ermine wrap, her car and her chauffeur. But the price she would have had to pay was not to her liking. She could have married into the Blue Book but the price would have been the same. Love or its semblance. And she was, she was sure, through love, it was grand and sweet, and sad and awful. She hoped it never would happen to her again.

She stepped from the spotlight and the floor of the show house when she met Gene Barde, a large, florid, hard-drinking promoter, who was about as sensitive to woman's charm as iron is to heat or cold. He became warmly interested in Sue Vestal, not because of her obvious beauty but because he decided that a woman with her charm, looks and business acumen would make a fine night club operator and Gene had not heard of a night club operator since the late Tex Guinan quit running the El Fey.

He persuaded a group of wealthy men to put up the money that launched Sue in the business with the El Florio Club. In the first years when the club was playing to capacity, she once tried to express her gratitude.

"What," she once asked him, "can I do to show you how much I appreciate your starting me in this business?"

"Keep the club paying me and my friends twenty per cent on our investments in it's doing right now," he answered at once.

HARD TIMES COME

But those days had departed. For a year, Sue had struggled with a gradually shrinking clientele. For six months, it had been below the profit line and she had run five thousand dollars in debt. Now, as you were told before, she was sitting in El Florio wondering where she could find five thousand dollars and thinking of The Arabian Nights to keep from realizing that she couldn't find it.

She thought of the girl Scheherazade who told the young Amir a story a night for a thousand and one nights. She thought of Gene Barde, who had given her the 30 volumes which contained the Arabian Tales. She thought of love, as told by the story teller in the book and then she thought of it as she herself had known it. And that brought her to Jack Duval, her husband for a week, because loved? And at that possibility, she bowed her head and almost wept.

LOVE'S TRIUMPH

She looked up to see a waiter coming toward her. He was carrying a letter on his tray. He handed it to her. It was from Jack. She recognized his handwriting. Eagerly she opened it.

"Dearest Sue!" she read, "This isn't my usual anniversary note. It is a warning that you will see me not long after you have received it. Suddenly, I am very curious about you. I would like to talk with you again. Don't expect to see the same man who left you so inexcusably so long ago. I've aged and lost whatever looks I had. I know you haven't. I've seen your pictures. I also know that you never married—although that isn't any of my business. Would it be all right for me to drop into El Florio—"

She knew that the shadow standing before her table was he before she raised her eyes. He was smiling and she said immediately to the love he had given her and the love she had returned to him was the only love she had ever known.

That week had been wonderful, she thought sitting there in the wide, dimly-lit room. She had been so young and so alive. She and Jack had sped away in Jack's roadster. They had been married by a justice of the peace in a marrying town. They had gone to a hotel high on a mountainside for their honeymoon. They were still there when Jack's father came and took him away.

Thrilled and saddened by the remembrance of those days together, she thought of Jack and wondered whether he thought often of her. She knew all about him because she managed to keep in touch with his activities. He had inherited his father's business and had made a go of it as was furniture and his manufacture supported her home town. She knew he had never married. And she knew that he thought of her at least once a year because he always sent her a little note on the anniversary of their wedding.

But he hadn't sent it this year, she suddenly remembered, and today was the anniversary. Her melancholy deepened. Suddenly, she five thousand dollars she owed and didn't have ceased to be important. All Jack Duval was important and the reason he hadn't sent her the usual anniversary note, Jack Duval, that she was married.

herself, "Why, he does look exactly as I remember him!" She was laughing when she extended her hand and all the thrill she remembered and associated with him held her again. She said:

"Hello, Jack. What is it you wanted to see me about?"

"Well, I could make it a long story," he answered, "but I won't. I'm anxious and I've got to know right away. I want to know why you never married."

She looked at him carefully for a long time. Then, "I never saw anybody I could care for like I cared for you," she said.

"That's the way I feel, Sue," he told her eagerly. "Let's get married."

"Again?" she laughed.

"Again," he grinned. "And let's not waste any time about it."

"But we can't run right out of here," she told him. "I have to keep this place going. I owe five thousand dollars and I have to raise it or El Florio will wither and die."

"It's raised," he told her. "I'll give you a check for twenty times that. Only let's hurry. We've wasted eight years as it is."

There were people coming in now, lots of them because it was nearly midnight. Those who looked quickly enough to catch it were surprised to see Sue Vestal rise from her table and walk into a tall young fellow's arms. But they weren't as surprised as Jack Duval was when Sue said: "Arabian Nights, eh? Well what's so wonderful about them? Whatever happened in them that could approach this moment?"

THE END.

STARS ON AIR TONIGHT IN SOAP PROGRAM

Hollywood's most famous stars will appear in radio versions of outstanding new motion pictures produced by major studios on the new Lifebuoy Soap program, which will have its premiere over WEEI tonight.

Louella Parsons, famed columnist of the Boston Evening American, whose writings about Hollywood happenings and folk are read daily by millions of people, will present the half-hour show at 10 p. m.

The first show will feature Marlene Dietrich and Bruce Cabot in "Flame of New Orleans."

PRODUCERS AID

The Lifebuoy series is made possible through the co-operation of leading Hollywood film producers. The screen personalities appearing on the program will play the same roles they do in the pictures involved.

Miss Parsons is known to radio listeners through her "Hollywood Hotel" program offered several years ago. She will introduce the various stars participating in the shows. Near the conclusion of each broadcast, Miss Parsons will answer questions concerning her guests and Hollywood in general, submitted by listeners.

The musical background of the series will be provided by Felix Mills and his orchestra, identified with "The Silver Theatre" and other top-flight shows. Harlow Wilcox, who announces "Fibber McGee and Molly" as well as other important series, will function in this capacity on the new setting. The scripts will be written by Harry Kromman, author of various hit films and radio productions, including "Hollywood Hotel."

LAYISH OPENING

The new show will be given an opening at Station KNX, Hollywood, comparable to the most lavish ever accorded an important motion picture.

As guests of Miss Parsons, nearly 400 Hollywood celebrities will attend the event tonight. Photographers representing national magazines will cover the premiere and searchlights will pencil the sky to attract attention to it.

Under the policy governing the dramatic series, all available motion pictures will be thoroughly studied to determine their suitability for broadcast purposes. Box office appeal of the various players will be carefully examined in order to insure engagement of personalities who are extremely popular in every section of the continent. More than 300 actors, both screen and radio, are being auditioned for supporting roles in the new Lifebuoy series. The auditions have already commenced and will continue at least three more weeks.

MUST BE THE GYPSY IN HIM!

Moe Berg Starting 19th Season in Majors

By HERB FINNEGAN

HAVANA, Cuba, March 28—Thirty-nine now and starting his 19th season in major league baseball, Moe Berg is planning to take up the catching cudgels for the Red Sox again after a season of bull-pen tutoring.

MOE BERG Here is without doubt the most amazing character in baseball. A Princeton alumnus of '23, a graduate of Columbia law school and the Sorbonne in Paris, a meddler in, if not a master of some nine languages, expert in photography, etymology, and an established lawyer, Berg still fiddles around with baseball when it costs him more to live than he makes at the game.

He's never been a top figure either, but he loves the game, and it is likely that he will be attached to it as long as he lives.

It's the gypsy in him, we suppose, because he's never happier than when traveling. He knows everybody everywhere, everything about every city in the world. And everybody's business.

Here's the way he operates. Walking with him down the main street of Sarasota, a little old fellow with false face whiskers, flat black hat and black suit, passes by. A little later another. And you begin to wonder if they belong to some obscure religious sect.

"Never wonder," is Moe's watchword. "Find out."

So true to his slogan he approaches the stranger politely and asks a few questions. He finds that the bewhiskered gentlemen can't express himself clearly in English, that he speaks German.

So, without a moment's hesitation, Moe swings into German and discovers that the visitor belongs to the Amish-Mennonites, that their headquarters are in Silver Creek, Ohio, that they are an agricultural sect and come to work in Sarasota's celery fields in the winter to escape the wintry blasts of northern Ohio.

He knows how far the little girl in the corner drug store went to school, what her boy friend does for a living; he knows that the fellow who runs the Tropical Gardens comes from Indiana and how much rent he pays.

He's the world's best reporter laughing his way through life and using baseball as a means of furthering his fun and education.

But Moe knows his baseball, and he's always in condition. He has been around the world three times since he was graduated from Princeton, and yet he has never learned to smoke or drink.

For the first month in camp, he contents himself with a glass of orange juice in the morning, a glass of milk at noon and one full meal at nine in the evening, so that he won't have to eat again before he retires.

He takes off ten pounds in this fashion, and if you wonder why he doesn't flinch on the ball field he'll reply:

"People eat too much. I'm 39 now, and never had a headache in my life. Never took a pill, either."

He must be right because in all the years I've known him, I've never once heard him complain of being ill, even for a minute. He injured his knee severely when he was with the White Sox in 1932 but he has never been out of the game for any other reason.

Truly a remarkable character. He broke in with the Dodgers as a shortstop in 1923, and in 1924 played for them against the St. Louis Cardinals at Bradenton, 13 miles up the road.

On the way over there to play Louisville the other day, he recalled every man in both lineups, and only Ray Blades, now managing New Orleans, is actively interested in baseball besides Moe. And Blades hasn't played ball for years.

Moe started in the big leagues before either Mose Grove, Jimmie Fox, Joe Cronin, Charlie Root, Carl Hubbell, the Waners or other time-worn veterans.

Only Gabby Hartnett ante-dates him.

Ted Lyons of the White Sox came up at exactly the same month as Moe, only from Baylor, and both are still around.

Moe played shortstop for the White Sox when Eddie Collins was managing the club and playing second base. And how long has Mr. Collins been through? And he turned catcher overnight when the three Chicago catchers were all injured simultaneously.

Unless he told you his age, you'd never believe him. He's as strong now as he was at 23. He can't move his 6-1, 195 pound frame around as fast as of yore, he'll readily admit, yet he's agile enough to crouch behind the bat nine innings any time he's asked.

He's been tutoring young Red Walsh of Exeter, N. H., this spring in the fine arts of catching, and Red extols his teaching ability. And he's been getting into trim and having a lot of fun on his own hook.

A baseball troubadour! If ever there was one, a grand fellow with a rare sense of humor.

"Okay boys, I need the experience," he'll say after catching batting practice for hours when there is no relief in sight. Or, "No running for me today, boys, I'm a coach."

But methinks he'll do more catching than coaching this year because the club will carry only Pytlak and Pescock, and Moe's as big as the pair of them put together.

He's a great pal of Al Schacht, and Al likes to rib him with:

"Over-educated catcher. Graduated from three colleges, speaks nine languages and never wrote a book. But I did, and I never went farther than grammar school."

Al won't be able to say that much longer, however, because Moe, even now, in whatever spare time he has, is preparing a book on etymology, an elaborate affair. The study of word origin has ever been his fondest hobby, and the book should be a whiz.

But I'd rather read one by him on "People I've Met and Where." That would be a classic.

Clapper Clicks

TORONTO, March 28.—What happened in the Bruins' dressing room before last night's game is a deep secret; but the word is being passed around that Art Ross really gave his gang a fight talk that brought the eventual victory. He must have said plenty, for those Bruins came on the ice and almost body checked the Leafs out of the Garden. Never were the B's more vicious. Everything went and those tactics eventually slowed the Leafs down to a walk.

Capt. Dit Clapper whose play has been below par during this series, really found himself—he was great. Time and again he broke rallies with brilliant poke checking and followed that up with a great exhibition of body checks.

What a cheer went up when Gordie Drillon scored and the reception was fitting and proper for it was Gordie's 19th playoff goal in four years. It shattered the record of 18 made by Frank Boucher of the Rangers more than 11 years ago.

This is Pat McReavy's first playoff series and his aggressiveness last night means that Mel Hill is through for the rest of the series unless Old Man Injury pops in again. . . If Mickey Ion is unpopular in Boston, you should have seen his greeting here. He couldn't have done much better than broken even with a guy named Hitler in an unpopularity contest. . . The attendance was 14,824, about 1000 better than Tuesday.

When Dit Clapper was sent off for holding Apps with seven minutes to play, it looked like the turn-

BRUINS EVEN SERIES WITH LEAFS BUT LOSE COWLEY COMPLETELY

EN ROUTE TO BOSTON, March 28.—The merry Stanley Cup whirl, which has taken so many unexpected turns in four games played, came up "Bruins" again and as a result the Rossmen are winging home this morning deadlocked with the Toronto Maple Leafs at two-all.

Realizing a loss would just about spell finish, the Bruins threw everything they had at the Leafs, even Cowley on one leg—a mistake that washed the "Cowboy" up for the rest of the year. The final score read: Boston 2, Toronto 1.

Trying gamely to carry on under yards of tape, one check settled Cowley for good. He was legally hit by Jack Church and went down on that same bad knee just before the time clock had hit 13 minutes in the first period.

It was his second appearance on the ice and his last of the year.

But even the loss of Cowley failed to stop those Bruins. They kept plugging away until Herbie Cain slapped home his own rebound at 8:13 in the final canto to tuck the ball game away. This tally ended the deadlock which had come about when Gordie Drillon drilled home a goal to offset Porky Dumart's classic in the second period.

Those three goals tell the scoring story of one of the most bitterly-fought hockey games ever seen at the Maple Leaf Garden.

Opening the second period, the Bruins resorted to a new type of play. The wings were told to take no unnecessary chances and to forecheck as much as possible in attacking territory and to stay in position so as to get away fast for backchecking on their lanes.

It was Rookie Pat McReavy who set up the shot. McReavy stole the plug away from Jack Church and fired at the strings. The shot was partially blocked but Herb Cain raced in fast and flailed away. The puck bounced off Turk Broda's chest and the Toronto goalie dived for the loose puck.

Calmly, Herb Cain fished it out from under, moved his stick around the prostrated goalie and fore-handed a nice little chip shot home to spell victory.

DUMART FINALLY CLICKS

Those Leafs went into tantrums insisting that Cain had kicked it in but they had no cause for argument and the dispute ended as it should have—with the Bruins getting credit.

The Bruins opened the scoring after an Oh-oh first period when "Porky" Dumart broke into the goal making department for the first time in the series.

Milt Schmidt set the play up beautifully by snagging the disc deep in his own territory and carrying all the way into attacking range. Dumart roared down the left lane a step behind and took a perfectly timed side pocket shot from Schmidt. Drawing bead from 15 feet out, Porky lifted the puck into the upper right hand corner at 7:15.

"TROUBLESOME TWINS"

Following the procedure of the two past games the Leafs tied it up when Mickey Ion called a double penalty that had the Boston bench screeching. Church jammed Smith into the boards and started to go to work on Dez. The Bruins' defenseman brought up his stick in front of him to protect himself off, they both went.

Those "Troublesome Twins," Syl Apps and Gordie Drillon, went to work with both clubs a man shy. Breaking out of the defense together they roared down the ice with Hollett and Clapper waiting for them. Hollett came up to the blue line to get Apps, but the Leafs' center got around him. Syl then faked Crawford and laid a nice pass on Drillon's stick. That tells the story of Toronto's lone goal of the night.

So it's two-all with the next round taking place at the Boston Garden tomorrow night.

DERRINGER'S INJURY MAY COST REDS FLAG

By HERB FINNEGAN

HAVANA, Cuba, March 28—Big Paul Derringer was among the missing as the Reds paddled over here with the Red Sox from Miami, and Big Paul may be among the missing for some time to come.

The No. 1 pitcher of the world champion Cincinnati club is at his Sarasota home, recuperating from a serious groin injury suffered when hit by a line drive off Mike McCormick's bat during batting practice a week back.

The Reds expect Derringer to rejoin them when they return from Havana next Monday, but it is doubtful if he will. He was a pretty sick man when he visited the Sox quarters at Sarasota just before they broke camp and he feared he would have to undergo an operation before he rejoined the club.

COULD COST PENNANT
Batting practice is the bane of all pitchers, and the subject came up while the boys were making the boat trip over here.

"There's no need of a hitter lining balls back at the pitcher," said one irascible hurler. "They can hit to left or right field if they want to, but some of them think it's a big joke if they can make the pitcher jump."

"A how like the one Derringer suffered might conceivably cost the club the pennant. Look at his record: 21-14 in '38; 25-7 in '39, and 20-12 last year."

"Take a consistent 20-game winner away from the club for any length of time, and watch it stagger. His place just can't be filled in a hurry."

There's a lot of truth in the pitcher's bleat.

We've stood at the cage while Jimmie Foxx has been hitting, and have seen him pass up ball after ball which he seemingly could have hit out of the park.

Why?
DERRINGER GOOD FIELDER
Simply because he was afraid he'd hit the ball through the box, and that is akin to murder when a hitter like Foxx is operating. So rather than take a chance on injuring one of his own teammates he'd pass up the pitch. But all batters are not so thoughtful as Foxxie.

Several remedies were advanced for a pitcher's protection. One was to use a dead ball in batting practice. A pitcher no matter how agile, hardly has time enough to get his hands up before a liner reaches him with the present jack-rabbit ball.

Another was to make the pitcher use shin guards and a special mask. But pitchers have their pride, and don't like to do that.

Derringer is one boy who takes great pride in his fielding ability, and has few marks to show for his years of mound toil.

Joe Beggs, a teammate of Derringer's, is another slick fielder, yet Beggs was hit with a line drive earlier in the training season and was unable to run for two weeks.

The ideal situation, of course, is that employed by the Yankees. They have carried Paul Schrieber around for years just to pitch to the hitters.

TATTOOED MAN

Paul is not even listed on the roster, never pitched an inning of an official game for the Yanks, yet does exceptionally well financially.

They give him about $3500 a season just for his pre-game activities, and he was voted a full share of the World Series receipts during the four successive years the Yankees were tramping their National League opponents.

Schrieber gets hit and hit often. Toward the close of the season he looks like the tattooed man in the circus, so black and blue is he. But he's good insurance for the other pitchers, because if he is waylaid by the hitters the club will not suffer as the Reds will if they lose their No. 1 pitcher for any length of time.

That batting practice can be a costly business.

Tom Early Fails Stengel Again; 'Ace' Williams Clicks on Slab

By BILL GRIMES

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 28—With George Barnicle, Al Piechota and Alva Javery dividing the pitching assignments, the Bees will wind up their series with the Minneapolis Millers this afternoon at Tech Field.

Barnicle has been in but one game this spring. He was to have been given more opportunities but games which he was to have pitched were washed out.

In the third game of the Browns series, "Barney" worked the last two innings. And, with the exception of a sharp single by Roberto Estalela, the Haneymen didn't hit a ball out of the infield.

Javery will be out for the third time this afternoon. He opened St. Louis series and was maltreated by the Browns for three innings. And at New Braunfels two weeks ago, he hurled for two rounds against the Millers, who bunched a couple of two baggers on him and came up with one run.

BREAKS CAMP TUESDAY

Piechota has shown more improvement than any of the pitchers who were with the club last season. He has looked like the Piechota of two years ago. He wasn't impressive in his first game, for he walked two men in as many innings and was clouted for a single, a triple and a tremendous home run.

However, he began to click in Mexico, where he went in and stopped the Browns who had taken too many liberties with Nick Strincevich. And, but for that Mexican decision which Ziggy Sears rendered in the 11th inning, might have come through a winner.

The Bees will break camp next Tuesday, so some of the pitchers have only a few more chances to show cause for their retention. They will be rated on their showings between now and the end of the trip North.

Bob "Ace" Williams improved his rating yesterday by turning in a neat three-inning performance against the Minneapolis Millers.

On the other hand, Black Tom Early, from Mission Hill, lost of the first three of the four innings he hurled against Randolph Field, Black Tom has failed to come up to expectations.

EARLEY FAILS AGAIN

On March 8, the Browns got to him for four runs in two rounds, during which he not only allowed four hits but he walked no less than six batters. At Randolph Field, a triple play, which popped up after Early had passed the first two men to face him in the 9th, probably saved the Roxbury boy from being humiliated by the enlisted men at "The West Point of the Air."

Manager Casey Stengel gave Early another "who's who" yesterday. But Tom again failed him. He went to the mound in the 4th with the score deadlocked. Two innings were enough to convince Old Case that it just wasn't Tom's day. For when Early retired for a pinch hitter, the Bees were trailing by three runs. The Millers got to him for a single, two doubles and an over the right field fence home run by Huck Grady, who, incidentally, is too classy a shortstop to be in any minor league.

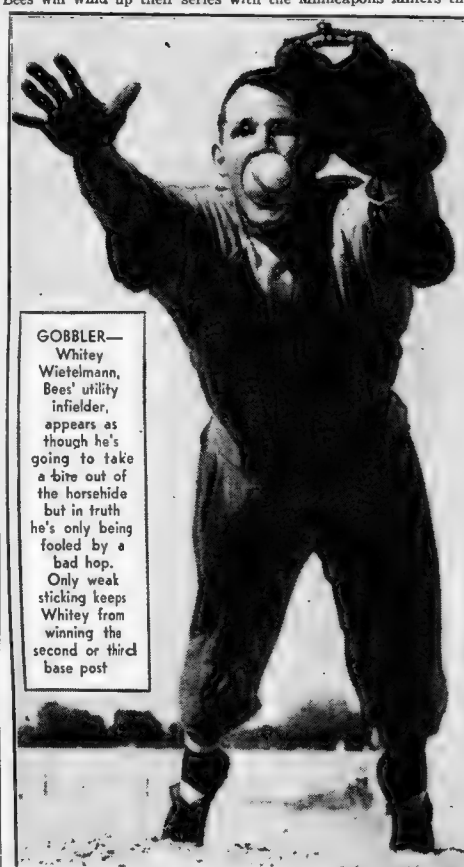

Judging from what he has shown down here, Tom Early is on the ragged edge. He must improve if he's going to stay with the Bees. Unquestionably, Casey Stengel will give the Roxbury boy another chance.

Long Bob "Ace" Williams on the other hand really looked like a big league pitcher. In the first place, he had control, which is something he has lacked in about every game he has ever pitched for the Bees. Then, too, he was "changing up" cleverly and effectively.

In three rounds, "Ace" didn't issue a walk and he struck out two Millers.

8 YEARS OLD IMPORTED BY

S. S. PIERCE & CO. BOSTON

CHARLES F. ADAMS, president of Suffolk Downs, is back in Boston after a vacation in Florida . . . Adams plans to attend the playoff game between the Bruins and the Maple Leafs at the Garden on Saturday night . . . Adams brings word that Racing Secretary Charley McLennan of Suffolk Downs has secured promises that the leading thoroughbreds in the country will appear at the East Boston track during the 1941 meeting of 60 days.

As a result of changes made in the A. A. U. boxing rules at the recent convention at Denver, Col., two minute rounds will be permitted in the trial bouts of the A. A. U. championships that will be staged at the Garden on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week . . . This will speed up the show and give the fans more action . . . Gene Driscoll and Tom Kanaly have decided as a consequence of this rule change to have only two instead of three rings in the Garden for the trials.

The boxers will weight in at 10 a. m. Monday for the trials, and will start tossing punches at 3 p. m. at the Garden . . . The trial bouts will continue until 6 p. m. after which there will be an intermission until 7:30 p. m. . . . With two-minute rounds, it is expected that the last of the trial contests will be over by 11:30 p. m. instead of in the wee hours of the morning as was the case in former years.

There will be 64 boxers for the semifinals on Tuesday night . . . This will result in 32 bouts . . . The first bout will get underway at 5 p. m. which should bring the show to a close at about 11:30 p. m. . . . The finals on Wednesday night will feature 24 bouts and 7:30 p. m. starting time . . . The last champion should be crowned before midnight.

In all, there will be some 150 youthful punch flingers in the tournament . . . It is hoped that at some future time the A. A. U. authorities will stage regional tournaments, and only bring the sectional champions here . . . This plan was first proposed by Gene Driscoll . . . It would result in 72 of the class amateur boxers of the country meeting, and the tournament could be run off in two nights.

Narragansett ready to receive horses

BOBBY GOLDMAN, making the rounds of the Boston newspapers for Billy Ames' publicity department at Narragansett Park, tells me that by Monday the Rhode Island track will be prepared to receive horses . . . Sixty per cent of the horses that will race at Narragansett Park have been appearing in Florida . . . Another 20 per cent have been racing at Oaklawn, while the balance will be from California, Kentucky and from various winter quarters in Maryland and New England . . . The bugle blows for the first Narragansett race of the 1941 season on April 12—only 15 days away . . . Who do you like in the first race? . . . Still waiting for the entries.

Between directing the sale of tickets for the Bruins games, the A. A. U. boxing championships, the Olympics ice battles and the Ice Follies, Tommy Waters of the Garden is having one of his fastest work-outs as the indoor season nears its close . . . Later Tommy will be in charge of the sale of tickets at Suffolk Downs . . . Joe Soucy of the Garden says there has been a decided pickup in interest in the A. A. U. championships during the past few days . . . The announcement of the list of 15 heavyweights gave new fire to the show.

Simon and Louis will draw $100,000

ABE SIMON HAS made a decided appeal to boxing fans as a result of his recent good showing against Joe Louis . . . There is already a $10,000 advance sale for the return bout between Simon and Louis in New York in May, and it is a cinch that the gate will top $100,000 . . . Gene Tunney once headed a group of millionaires that owned Simon's contract . . . Tunney decided that Simon was too big and slow to win the world's championship . . . Jimmy Johnston then stepped into the picture, and sparked Abe as he made his sensational showing against Louis.

Louis usually shows better against an opponent the second time he meets him . . . I call attention to his knockouts of Max Schmeling, Bob Pastor and Arturo Godoy in return bouts . . . Schmeling had previously stopped the "Brown Bomber" while Pastor had gone ten rounds and Godoy 15 . . . Once Louis gets a line on an opponent's style, he usually finds a way to beat him in impressive style.

Johnston insists Simon will prove an exception, and that in the coming bout Abe will not be knocked out . . . Later on you may be certain Johnston will insist that Simon, with two goods hands, will win . . . Sports writers, promoters and managers who have admired Johnston for his color, fearlessness and knowledge of boxing would like to see him end up with the world's heavyweight champion.

No doubt Louis has gone back, but I doubt whether he has slipped enough for Simon to defeat him . . . One must give Louis credit for permitting all of the contenders to take a few free handed punches at his chin . . . Joe has supreme confidence in his own ability to win . . . He is also getting plenty of real fighting while he prepares for his June tussle with Billy Conn.

Random shots at target

PAUL BOWSER will take The Angel to California for a series of matches that will start the latter part of next month . . . Paul believes that Private Steve Casey is still the chief threat to The Angel's mat title.

Sergeant Eddie Mack will be back in local circulation within a few days . . . You may then expect to get a few hot tips on the coming race meeting at Narragansett Park . . . Mack has been in Arizona and in California.

FAST TRAVELING RED WINGS IGNORE ALL STOP LIGHTS

By the Associated Press

The scramble for the finals of hockey's Stanley Cup series still looks like a wide open affair between Boston and Toronto, the National League's two top teams during the regular season, but the Detroit Red Wings are a big step in front of their business with the Chicago Black Hawks.

Detroit opened its best of three semifinals last night by pasting the crippled Hawks, 3-1, on the Red Wings home ice and the future looks bright for Jack Adams' youngsters. They now are in a position to bounce right into the finals by winning the second game at Chicago Sunday night, or falling that, will have the advantage of playing the third and deciding game on their own ice Tuesday.

The Redwings led all the way in the game at Detroit, Sid Abel scoring the first goal in the last minute of the first period. Then Carl Liscombe added another midway through the second stanza, and after Mush March finally rammed in Chicago's sole tally in the third, Joe Fisher pushed in the Wings' final score.

ROSS' TALK SPARKS BRUINS TO TIE SERIES

for point—Clapper realizing that his mates were tired, skated over to his own bench and consumed letter than a minute drinking a cup of water . . . this time-killing did not set too well with the Bruins, but it really helped the Bruins.

The betting before the game was 8 to 5 with the Bruins on the short end but there was very little Boston money in sight . . . Cowley's knee was bound up with more tape and bandage than an Egyptian mummy and it hindered him greatly. He had very little free movement and during the pre-game warmup it was evident that sudden stops and fast starts were virtually impossible.

In the dressing room before game time, Bobby Bauer said his instep felt better but that he felt far from right . . . Bobby then went on to say:

"I knew I wasn't going to be of any use Tuesday night when that Babe Davidson skated away from me. Any time I can't stay with him, I'm not worth much to the club."

Bill Cowley was knocked down and counted out at 12:50 in the opening period . . . play continued for close to 10 seconds while he lay writhing in pain on the ice . . . the entire house stood up in sympathy and gave him a great hand as he hobbled off . . . although in pain, Cowley banged his hickory on the floor disgusted because he was unable to continue . . . it looked like a mistake on the part of the Bruins to start him.

With Cowley out, Art Jackson moved up to center. Eddie Wierman and Roy Conacher . . . Terry Reardon took Jackson's place and Pat McReavy, the 15th man who dressed in place of Mel Hill, went in at right wing to line up with Reardon and Cain.

Bobby Hewitson who gives three stars to the standouts of the night, named Bobby Taylor as his first choice, Hollett second and Clapper third . . . our vote would be Brimsek and Clapper tied for first and Taylor third.

Heading the group of Rocky Mountain entries is 202 pounds Rodie O'Dooley from Steamboat Springs, Col., a real Irishman, born in Eire. O'Dooley is quite a prospect, blessed with a heart and a terrific punch, and is the hottest prospect seen in the Rockies since Jack Dempsey came out of that part of the country to go on to become heavyweight champion of the world.

Rodie hails from a town back in the mountains where he has been accustomed to a rough life with plenty of hard work and is in perfect physical condition for the coming National Championships. O'Dooley's teammates on this trip to the Nationals are Frank Yazza, flyweight from Albuquerque, N. M.; Nick Trujillo of Denver, Col., bantamweight; Cecil Trujillo and Max Ankels, both of Denver, so evenly matched in their championship final that both boys will try for the 126 pounds crown; Foster Campbell, lightweight; Clark Miller, Denver, Rocky Mountain 147 pounds champion and Henry McAdams, a dynamic punching light heavyweight from Las Cruces, N. M. The Oklahoma team is composed of Earl O'Neal, 112; Donnie Poolaw, 118; Proctor Heindol, 126; Gus Stanford, 135; Eddie Russey, 147; Vincent Myers, 160; Asa Howing-wolf, a full blooded Indian, in the light heavyweight division, and Oswald Porton, heavyweight.

Two soldier boys from Camp Shelby down in Louisiana, are among the five entries from the Southern Ass'n.

The Southern team will be: Warren Shurt, New Orleans, 126; Eddie Gettes, 135; John Zohosky, 147, and Steve Malmki in the 175, both from Camp Shelby, La.; Sal Marcenti of New Orleans, heavyweight.

All of these boys won Southern Association championships in the final tournament held in New Orleans last Tuesday night.

Tech Christens Two New Shells

Two new shells, one for the Technology varsity and the other for the lightweight crew, are to be christened tomorrow afternoon at the M. I. T. boathouse by Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The varsity shell is to be named in honor of H. W. McCurdy of the class of 1922, prominent Seattle engineer, who was captain of the first official varsity crew at M. I. T.

The shell for the lightweight is to be named after John C. Molinar of New York City, the stroke oar of the 1922 varsity.

These shells were built by George Pocock at Seattle, Washington.

2 Rings for Nationals

Gene Driscoll, national vice-chairman of the National A. A. U. boxing committee, announced that only two rings would be used in the preliminary contests on Monday night in the national three-day tournament at the Boston Garden.

Last year it was necessary to use three rings, but at the national convention held in Denver last December the boxing rules for championships were amended to allow the bouts the first two days of the championships to be run at two minutes instead of the usual three-minute rounds. All bouts in the semi-finals and finals on April 2 will be at three-minute rounds.

ST. MARY'S COURT TEAM IN 2ND CHICAGO TEST

CHICAGO, March 28—A fighting, colorful St. Mary's High School basketball machine from Lynn, Mass., was favored to take its second-round match from the strong St. Joseph's of Oil City, Pa., here today in the National Catholic prep basketball tournament.

The St. Mary's quintet made a most impressive debut in its bid for U. S. championship fame yesterday afternoon when it crushed a competent St. Joseph's team from Owensboro, Ky., 58 to 20.

The work of the St. Mary's players, especially Birmingham, Herley and Whelan, was so good that observers here installed the unheralded Bay State team a strong dark horse chance for their crown won for the past two years by Central Catholic of Fort Wayne.

The defending champions were drawn to open second round competition against St. George of Evanston, Ill., a team they bowled over in the semi-finals of their 1939 title march.

Another ranking second round game pits St. Aloysius of New Orleans against Power Memorial of New York City. St. Aloysius rang up 59 points yesterday, tops among first round scores, to defeat Regis of Denver, which got 31. Pacing the New Orleans team was Sam Trombatore with 21 points.

Although many of yesterday's results were one-sided, the evening round contributed a succession of thrillers. Messenger of Milwaukee noosed out St. Gregory of Shawnee, Okla., 26-24, on successive goals by Don Carpenter.

In the next contest, Cretin of St. Paul had to go two overtimes to turn back Spalding of Peoria, Ill., 34 to 31. St. Simon Stock of New York City then closed the night round with a 28 to 26 decision over Trinity of Bloomington, Ill.

Today's schedule includes:

That the cream of the New England basketball talent will be seen in action in the basketball double-header classic at the Arena Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock is evident from the fact that at least five coaches are included in the lineup of the Boston Good-Wins in their game with the Norton Co. of Worcester.

The coaches in the Good-Wins' lineup are Ed Krause, of the Holy Cross varsity; Ed Glancy of De La Salle Academy of Providence; Chet Jaworski of East Providence High School; Russ Lawry of Burlington High School, and Freddie Jenkins of Huntington School in Boston.

PICS PLAY IN JERSEY TONIGHT

The Olympics entrained this morning for Atlantic City where they will resume play for the national title tonight against the Sea Gulls. Following the Gulls' game, Coach Hago Harrington and his squad move to River Vale for a Saturday night contest with the River Vale Skeeters.

The Pics return to the Garden State Sunday afternoon for the final game of this series as well as the final appearance for the season meeting the Washington Eagles.

In the opening game of this title play last night, the New York Rovers turned back the Olympics 5 to 3 in an overtime contest which featured the play of Tom Moon, Pica's spare goalie who replaced Johnnie Fischer in the cage for the Rovers shortly after the game got underway. Fischer injured his eye in a scrimmage in front of the nets and was forced to retire.

GREENBERG DECLARES WAR ON SPORT SCRIBES

By LAWTON CARVER

LAKELAND, Fla., March 23 (INS)—Although his large, flat feet probably will keep him out of the Army, Hank Greenberg of the Detroit Tigers has declared war.

The six foot, four inch slugger has squared off against the press, and is taking on all comers with snarls, growls and snarls, and rapidly the situation is developing to a point of interest comparable to that occasion when Dizzy Dean chased up sides and tried to whip a lobby full of reporters three years ago.

One of the most valuable players in the American League last season, Greenberg has become annoyed over criticism of his position in the draft and seems determined to fall out with somebody every day, preferably a man armed with a typewriter or a camera. The reporters have responded in kind and the battle is on in a quiet undercurrent sort of way down here in the Tiger camp among the waving palms.

EXPLODED IN GOTHAM

Greenberg's first explosion occurred in New York when he arrived from a Hawaiian vacation and was besieged at the airport for a statement on a story which had asked deferment by the Detroit draft board with which he had registered.

He greeted his interviewers with short, caustic replies and succeeded in creating the impression that he didn't want to talk or be bothered.

He has carried the feud on into camp here and the exchange of icy stares and sizzling comment has kept the temperature at the local ball park running up and down like a lunch hour elevator. From Greenberg's standpoint, the worst part of it all is that he has some of his home town reporter fellows from Detroit sharpening up their typewriters.

A local photographer got mixed up in it when he snapped a picture of Greenberg and brought on a howling tantrum topped off later by Greenberg's assertion that he is "getting sick and tired of you men."

This situation is of particular interest because of elements not generally found in similar sniping by athletes and reporters. For one thing, Greenberg has never before had caught the fancy of the public to the extent of many other stars of no more and possibly less ability.

IN BATTING SLUMP

Even the Detroit fans seem all ways on the verge of blowing cool, or they were anyway during the last World Series from what I could gather. Their cheers somehow seemed a little grudging for such a player and such an occasion.

A batting slump hasn't improved his disposition any to speak of down here, and if he has the misfortune to stay in that slump after the season opens, the wolves will be on him back home and he will wind up frothing.

He has got himself all entangled in a frame of mind apparently and will stay still. He may snap out of it, although Bill Terry of the Giants has been that way for years. Some ball players never get loose once it gets them.

Greenberg is in a peculiar position with the press and with the public. There is considerable resentment against him even down here among the John Q. fans, who first were the little piqued over Greenberg's request for deferment and now are the big home town bitter is being pelted and given special privileges because owner Walter O. Briggs of the Tigers has announced that if Greenberg goes he will be paid his $40,000 or $50,000 for the season anyway.

Hershey Six Has Title Chance

By the Associated Press

During the regular American Hockey League campaign, the only club which presented any threat to the Cleveland Barons' western division supremacy was the Hershey Bears. They have at least an even chance now of again providing the competition for Cleveland in the playoff championship.

A 2-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Hornets last night gave the Bears an even break in the three-game semi-final series, to determine which team shall meet Cleveland for the Calder Cup trophy series. Pittsburgh won the opening game Tuesday, 4-1, on home ice.

All three goals last night were scored in less than three minutes of overtime.

Playing before 7500 fans at Hershey the teams battled for 60 minutes of scoreless hockey before Hank Lauson broke the ice 53 seconds after the whistle blew for the extra period.

It was a beautiful screen shot with Gordie Bruce skating interference for the play. The Hornets snapped back at 2:17 to tie the score on a power play with Eddie Conway rifling the puck past goalie Nick Damore.

Capt. Wally Kilrea slammed in the winning goal at 2:57, with Jack Shewchuk drawing an assist.

Shewchuk lifted the puck from his own defense zone across neutral ice into Pittsburgh territory. The rubber landed near goalie Harvey Teno who came out slowly to clear it, apparently unaware of the oncoming Kilrea.

The Bears' leader got to it first and whacked it into the unguarded net.

The deciding contest will be played at Hershey Saturday night, as the Bears, undefeated on home ice since the playoffs started, ought to have a slight edge.

Baer Easiest Guy in World To Beat—Nova

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, March 28 (INS)—"It's easier for me to beat you than to lick to Max Baer!" This astonishing statement came today from Lou Nova, the big blond Californian who licked Baer two years ago and who in preparing to turn the trick again in Madison Sq. Garden a week from tonight.

"It was never a surprise to me when Jim Braddock, Joe Louis or anybody else licked Baer," Lou continued earnestly. "The only times Baer ever surprised me was when he managed to beat somebody."

"Baer is one fellow you can fight according to a set formula. You climb into a ring with anybody else and you'll find your opponent trying different ways to beat you. But not Baer. He fights the same way all the time. He never changes."

LOU HAS FORMULA
This formula idea interested us and we asked Lou to explain.

"It's simple," he replied. "The formula is stick, step and duck. You stick a left hand in his face, step to his right and duck his wild round house right. Baer has no left hand to bother about because he only paws with it."

"Primo Carnera followed the first part of my formula all right by sticking Baer with a straight left," Lou said. "And the mistake of stepping back was just far enough to get into perfect range for Baer's round house wallo. That's why Baer had no trouble knocking him down 11 times."

Nova is down to 207 pounds and probably will enter the ring with Baer at about 204. He never was in finer condition and has convinced himself that the Livermore Larruper won't last more than seven or eight rounds.

NOVA BIT COCKY

"He's due to take plenty before I set him up for the finish," said Lou. "And this time I'm not going to make the mistake of standing too close and slugging with him as I did in our last fight. I guess I must have wanted to show him that even his Sunday punch couldn't hurt me."

Bagby Gets Chance

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 28 (AP)—Before the Cleveland Indians broke camp today, Manager Roger Koenig announced that he would give Pitcher Jim Bagby a chance to start in his town of Atlanta, Ga., tomorrow. Bob Feller will face the Crackers Sunday.

BRUMBAUGH NAMED MYERS' AIDE AT B. C.

Boston College guaranteed its football followers a colorful, wide open and quite likely effective offense when it appointed Carl Brumbaugh to coach its backfield candidates.

Brumbaugh, former player-captain-coach of the professional world champion Chicago Bears, is the third assistant to be chosen on the recommendation of Head Coach Denny Myers this week.

Harry Marr, an end at Notre Dame from 1934 through 1936 and for the past four years end coach at the University of Wichita, was selected to tutor Eagle wings Monday. Thomas "Tommy" Powers, freshman coach under Frank Leahy, was reappointed the same afternoon.

Head Coach Myers will select another assistant—a line coach—before the end of the spring practice drill. All of the seniors who played with the Sugar Bowl national champions, have been invited to participate—this time as instructors—in the spring sessions which begin Monday at the Heights. The remaining open post on the staff may eventually be filled by one of the seniors.

Head Coach Myers and his new assistant—who will be "first lieutenant"—were teammates on the Chicago Bears team in 1931.

Brumbaugh, a graduate of the University of Florida, joined the Chicago pro team after a standout career in college football. Now 34 years of age, Brumbaugh is married and father of two children.

A smart 180 pound quarterback, later captain and eventually playing coach, Carl has been a valuable cog in the Bears organization for six years.

In 1935 he took a leave of absence from Chicago to coach West Virginia into the Sun Bowl. That was his only previous foraging at college coaching.

Brumbaugh was at his best as a player in the early thirties. At that time he teamed with the likes of Bronko Nagurski and Red Grange.

Connie Mack in Favor Of Beanball Helmets

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28 (AP)—Lean, likable Connie Mack, ageless enthusiast of baseball, prefers the present slambang, home run type of game to the old 1-0 airtight model; favors universal adoption of protective helmets for batters and thinks the late Christy Mathewson was the greatest pitcher ever to turn his remarkable career spans the sport from its roisterous, boisterous iton man days to the 1941 cersion but after some 60 years of active participation he is "still learning."

Base hits and runs, the more the merrier, provide more thrills for Mack than the early day battles he fought when a lone run loomed bigger than the grandstand itself. He thinks the present ball is lively enough, however.

FAVORS SKUL CAPS

The 78-year-old survivor of the "knock 'em down, drag 'em out" era of baseball is in sympathy with the move to equip all batters with beanball helmets. His Philadelphia Athletics, engaged in exhibition games here, will wear the skull-piece when a suitable model is devised.

"The man who invents a helmet that insures absolute protection will make a fortune," Mack said.

"Some players may feel now it would reflect on their gameness to wear one, but the time is coming when they will be standard equipment."

Mathewson heads Mack's honor roll for pitchers because "Matty had perfect temperament. He had a good fast ball, marvelous curve and perfect control. He really knew how to pitch."

Mack recalled that Mathewson joined the New York Giants in 1901. He credits the great right-hander with "practically saving the National League. Mathewson pitched wonderful ball for the Giants in 1902-03. In 1905 we played the Giants in the first World Series under the present administration. The series went five games. All were shutouts. Mathewson pitched three of them and the Athletics didn't score a run off him."

MATTY GREATEST EVER

"Mathewson never failed in important games. That's why I pick him as the greatest pitcher of all. In contrast, my players always thought Walter Johnson was the best they faced."

Tyrus Raymond Cobb, the old Detroit Tiger outfielder, who also served a hitch with the Athletics under Mack, was described as one who stands alone in baseball. "No other player has approached Cobb. When he was on first base, we used to throw to third instead of second on a steal." Mack intimated he thought Cobb would etal bases out of a bank vault.

After 47 years of managing clubs, the Athletics since he became part owner in 1901, Mack is not going overboard on picking this year's American League race. He thinks the clubs are so evenly matched they all have a chance, including his own.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 28 (AP)—New York University, champion for five of the past seven years, put its intercollegiate fencing association title on the block today as the 48th annual championships got under way in the Princeton University gymnasium.

Led by Arthur Tauber, epee ace and only defending champion in the lists, the Violet was favored to retain the crown which it won most recently last year.

58 MT. MANSFIELD CLUB HOLDS MILITARY PATROL

By TAP GOODENOUGH

SKIING is playing a part in the national defense program. Troops equipped on skis have been formed and are now being trained. In keeping with such timely activities, the Mount Mansfield Ski Club is holding a Military Patrol race at Stowe, Vt., Sunday.

This new type of ski event is designed for the skier of average ability. The basic idea behind the development of the patrol is to make it an incentive for skiers to engage in the form of skiing which has the most value for national defense purposes.

Briefly, the so-called Military Patrol is a run made by a patrol of packs. The course is from one three members, each carrying designated point to another, en route guided by a sketch map and compass, the distance being 7 to 10 miles.

This novel race is open to anyone. Patrols must be entered at the Toll House, Mt. Mansfield, by 9:30 a. m., Sunday . . . Here's success to a grand idea.

The Wildcat Trail, a steep ribbon of curves that winds into Pinkham Notch, N. H., will be the scene of the annual Webber Cup and Willis Plate Races, Sunday, sponsored by the White Mountain Ski Runners . . . Several score of schuss experts are expected to compete for the coveted trophies, including the East's best downhill runners.

Good spring skiing is now at hand, with corn snow turning up at all key ski spots. The sport is already being enjoyed in shirt-sleeves. Don't forget your kistler, sealskins, and sun tan oil.

Places where the snow should last at least through April include the Tecumseh Trail in Waterville Valley and atop Cannon Mountain, Franconia Notch, N. H. . . . Of course, that famed snow bowl on Mt. Washington, Tuckerman Ravine, will be a "ski hive" until June. In Vermont, Pico Peak and Mt. Mansfield both offer late schussing.

DONOVAN NAMED

ST. LOUIS, March 28 (INS)—Arthur Donovan of New York was selected today to referee the 15-round heavyweight championship match between titleholder Joe Louis and challenger Tony Musto of Chicago in St. Louis April 8.

Cuban All-Stars Upset Sox as Rich Goes Route

HAVANA, Cuba, March 28.—The unexpected happened here when a picked squad of Cuban All-Stars pinned a 2 to 1 defeat on the powerhouse Red Sox.

The amazing Cubans, all simon pures, displayed a keen brand of ball with their hurler, Juan DeCall being deluged with cushions and hoisted to the shoulders of jubilant fans after the game was over.

DeCall showed remarkable control and served up a curve that had the Hose swinging like garden gates. A notable stunt he pulled came in the eighth frame when he fanned Doerr and Peacock.

It was the first time in 15 years that the Cubans had played major leaguers.

DeCall awarded the Sox but five hits while his mates were picking up seven at the hands of Woody Rich.

Rich, incidentally, looked alright on the mound as he fanned 11, being the first Sox hurler to go the full nine innings.

The Hose got their only run in the opening frame on a DiMaggio walk, a Finney single, and a long Spence fly.

MOTHER GIVES LIFE FOR BABY

For Him, Mother Gave Her Life—The story of stark tragedy is reflected in this picture of orphaned Bobby Glebus, 2½, and his grandmother, Mrs. Agnes Kornstowski . . . together under the black wings of death which took Bobby's mother today when she dashed from the sidewalk almost at the door of her Cambridge home, threw Bobby out of the path of an on-coming truck, and was herself crushed.
